FOREWORD

“Many earnest persons, who have found direct education for themselves fruitless and unprofitable, declare that they first began to learn when they began to teach, and that in the education of others they discovered the secret of their own” (Gamaliel Bradford). It was so for me. I found that to thoroughly teach another is the best way to learn for yourself. Yet, “I had six honest serving men who taught me all I knew: their names were Where, What, When, Why, How, and Who” (Rudyard Kipling). Truly though, I would never consider myself to be self-taught. So, who taught the teacher? My husband, Gary McDade. I learned along with my children as over the years he taught us in family devotions. Nothing could have proven so strongly his true sincerity or so powerfully awakened our reverence, as the instruction he gave in those devotions which thirty years ago took a distinguished place in our home. I learned along with him as he earned a bachelor’s degree and then a masters in Bible. I typed his papers, listened to him preach every Sunday, and observed his example. He is so very wise and dedicated to leading others to righteousness. What better teacher could I have had?

“They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever” Daniel 12:3.

I am dedicating this book to him with these words:

NO BETTER MAN THAN THIS

Have you ever heard the expression
A MAN WHO HAS NO ENEMIES?
Well, my husband has plenty of enemies.
Anyone who is an enemy of the Cross
Is an enemy of his.
He is prepared, studying daily.
He is wise, measuring with the standard of Truth.
He is brave, challenging the opposition.
He assesses them, questioning their error.
He confronts them, publicly exposing their apostasy.
He knows them well, studying their moves.
He is cautious, knowing their strengths.
He is alert, perceiving their weaknesses,

What better man can there be
Than one who lives what he believes?

Introduction

A Gold Mine For Teachers is an aid for those who take teaching a Bible class seriously. The sections directed toward the teacher's responsibility, aptitude and skill are unique in that workshops, written works and even required education courses in universities do not usually cover such a practical approach. THE ONE YEAR OUTLINE is also unique because it can be adapted to a wide age range of students depending upon the specific goals, memory work, visuals, take homes and assignments. THE REVIEW QUESTIONS are helpful even when teaching the youngest of students because it prepares the teacher with details, background, and chronology as she organizes her thoughts. Most teachers end up planning their own lesson even when they have a teacher's book, student book and visual aid packet. Their workroom is full of files of favorite pictures and learning activities they have used over and over. Therefore, THE YEAR OUTLINE provided in this volume is enough to organize a skillful teacher. Often teachers are handed printed material to teach a specific age group in an allotted amount of time, and the material is so unorganized they feel it would be cruel to confuse their students with it. It is important to teach in chronological order and give children a general perspective of the history of man. When a four year old child is taught about David The Shepherd Boy one Sunday and the next Sunday the lesson jumps to the New Testament to tell the story of Jesus, The Good Shepherd, our students may begin to feel like my son did one Sunday when he asked me when we were "going to get a sheep so we could love God."

Teaching is 90% teacher. Teachers must be qualified. Their example in love and faith, their genuine interest in the individual, their knowledge and zeal are more significant than the most expensive books and visuals. A Gold Mine For Teachers addresses characteristics needed to make the best of this 90%! The remaining 10% consists of the material taught. The teacher should always be consulted in the selection of the material. Too often teachers are not allowed this privilege, and they are told to teach what others think the students need. Often the person who orders material may not notice with a casual examination of the lessons that Joshua is omitted until Junior High or the book of Judges is never taught. Most Primary lesson books do this. They jump from Moses to Jesus and omit much of the Old Testament. Therefore, the chronological outline in A Gold Mine For Teachers is valuable for the teacher concerned about teaching an overall view of the Bible.

The chronological outline is to be adapted to the age and level of knowledge of your students. It can be altered to emphasize areas of study that your students need to focus on. The chapters on developing lessons illustrate this point. The Gold Mine For Teachers’ chronological outline has two yearly objectives. The First Objective is to guide the lessons in chronological order and leave the student with an overall view of the Bible emphasizing God's communication of His Will to man. It addresses God's communication first through the Fathers, Church. THE YEAR OUTLINE has 104 lessons, twenty-six lessons for each quarter. This provides thirteen lessons for Sunday and thirteen for Wednesday. Every other lesson is for Sunday and every other lesson is for Wednesday. It can be shared by the Sunday teacher and Wednesday teacher cooperating, or only one teacher teaching both Sunday and Wednesday. It is much more effective if the same teacher teaches both Sunday and Wednesday. It is a sacrifice to miss an adult class but worth it. Its advantages are in knowing the progress of each student and teaching at their pace. It is much easier for one teacher to back track or slow down if the class missed something or just review if the class knows the lesson well. The Second Objective is to put emphasis on memorization, whether it is memorizing the sixty-six books of the Bible, Psalm 23, or other important passages. The teacher has the privilege of choosing memory work best suited to the students.

It is hoped A Gold Mine For Teachers will inspire readers to drag out all those visual aids and dust them off. Also that it may influence teachers to study in preparation, pray in anticipation, and live so as to be an inspiration. The best application teachers can give is their example. It is often the Bible teacher that is remembered when a child has long outgrown cut outs and take homes as someone who they couldn't let down and for whom they have a tender spot in their heart.
Organization And Leadership

There is nothing more advantageous for having a successful Bible School than having a good director over it. The person who is responsible for the Bible School Department is usually an Educational Director, the Preacher, an Elder, or a Deacon. It is never appropriate for a woman to have the position. A woman directing and teaching men would be in violation of God's law (1 Tim. 2:12). The director may or may not be remunerated for his work. He may or may not have experience. But, he must have personal qualifications, just as any teacher must have. Good character, rare moral qualities, and a consistent life top the list.

I am indebted to my father for living but to my teacher for living well.--Alexander of Macedon

Contradictions like being over a teaching department yet never teaching a class yourself, or your own wife doesn't teach, or your children don't even go to church with you, are detrimental to a successful work. It is hard to tell someone to do something that you won't and don't do. The best way to lead is to step out there first. Be a literal example.

Example is more forcible than precept. People look at my six days in the week to see what I mean on the seventh. --Cecil

Other qualifications for this position would be excellence in communication skills, a positive attitude, strength to react appropriately in the face of adversity, an excellent knowledge of the Scriptures, an avid reader, a learner, a listener, a creative thinker, good at record keeping, a motivator, kind, friendly, open to suggestion. . . . As you can see he must be a "people person." He must relate well to small children and adults. Ministers are usually best qualified for this position because they have, in most cases, taken classes in communication and counseling while attaining a degree. Also, the preacher is more likely to have the Biblical knowledge needed for book reviews and material selection.

Listed here are responsibilities that are important for this position:

- Have frequent meetings with teachers
- Properly furnish classrooms
- Provide a well organized classrooms
- Provide a well secured teacher storage room for their personal visuals
- Get needed materials for teachers
- Help solve discipline problems
- Organize work days
- Promote teachers workshops
- Observe classes or tape them
- Encourage competition between classes
- Plan an open house every year
- Encourage memory work recitations
- Promote field trips
- Get informative reading materials in the hands of the teachers
- Book review presentations

Organization takes communication, and teacher's meetings are the place to begin. Before you have your first teachers meeting read Roberts Rules For Order. This book, I must admit, is overload. It is a little like going squirrel hunting with a nine millimeter uzi; it's much more ammunition than you need. But it will impress you with the need and advantages of order. Just think of the advantages if these suggestions were implemented in meetings:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>For An Organized Teacher’s Meeting:</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>➢ The director of the teaching department chairs the meeting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>➢ There is a secretary who keeps notes and makes them available to the teachers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>➢ Notes of the previous meeting are read</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>➢ Discuss old business</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>➢ New business must be submitted in writing to the chairman before the meeting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>➢ Motions are formally made, seconded and voted upon (regarding expedient matters such as setting goals, dates and choice of materials; always respecting the authority of the elders)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

A meeting that is properly organized will set and accomplish goals. Very little or nothing is accomplished with the format of going around the room and letting everyone say what is on their mind. This approach often results in people saying things that should be taken care of in private.

Every absurdity has a champion to defend it, for error is always talkative. -- Goldsmith

Repetition, rolling eyes, long harangues and even arguments are the consequences of an unorganized meeting. An unorganized meeting will discourage the teachers. Also, it will not be well attended because intelligent people need to see a point and a direction for their effort. It is important though for the teachers to have their say. But, to have this privilege they should do their homework by submitting in writing their suggestion, problem, or whatever motion they have prior to the meeting. New business presented in written form will make the teachers thoroughly think through their points, give the teacher an opportunity to clearly present the motion, give the chairman a chance to discuss it in private if necessary before the meeting, and eliminate most trivial problems by the chairman taking care of them beforehand.
Teacher Questionnaire

How can elders or an educational director know if a Christian is suited for teaching? It is a simple problem to solve. Test your teacher's Bible knowledge and ask them to fill out a Teacher Questionnaire. It is also a good approach for evaluating the teachers you now have in your Bible department. If someone refuses to take the test or fill out the form you may have found someone who is not really suited for teaching. A teacher should always be ready for evaluation, open for suggestion, and willing to learn. The elders have an obligation to know those under their charge, to shepherd the flock, to dress their vineyard. This suggestion of a questionnaire and knowledge test is in consideration of this obligation.

For an excellent General Bible Knowledge test look to Bible correspondence courses. You can get ideas for questions from them or have your teachers take the course and turn in their grades. The books that go with the Jule Miller films have one hundred questions in each of the five books, and they cover the entire Bible. It will help the leadership of a congregation to have confidence in their teachers if they have demonstrated excellence in general Bible knowledge.

A Moral Section in the test is appropriate. The society we must live in and are influenced by has a strong impact on spiritual lives. Teachers should give faithful answers to questions like:

- Is abortion wrong?
- Is dancing condemned in the Bible?
- Are homosexuals condemned in the Bible?
- Are effeminate men condemned?
- Is in vitro fertilization wrong?
- What is God's law on divorce?
- Is gambling a sin?

Questions addressing Denominational Doctrines will reveal how much personal work and study the perspective teachers have done. If a Christian has studied with their friends and family that are in denominational churches, then they will understand the need to have a knowledge of the learners perspective. Also, Christians from denominational backgrounds may, unintentionally, still use denominational terms. Sometimes it is important what not to teach. Example questions:

- Does the Bible reveal all of God's counsel?
- Is salvation by grace alone?
- What was the purpose of miracles?
- What does the term "original sin" mean?
- Should the term Sanctuary be used to describe a place of worship?
- Who should wear the title Reverend?
- How is the word “witness” misused by religious people today?
- Is there ever an occasion where it is appropriate to worship with instrumental music?
- Are solos, choirs, or women song leaders ever authorized in worship?
- What is wrong with clapping hands in worship?

It is imperative that a teacher is a faithful example. "Do as I say and not as I do" has never been an effective instruction.
Not the cry, but the flight of the wild duck, leads the flock to fly and follow.

Teachers should live lives consistent with their teaching. It is fitting to ask personal questions of teachers to get a clear perspective of their understanding of faithfulness.

Consider the following questions for a Personal Section in your Teacher Questionnaire:

- How long have you been a Christian?
- How many times have you been married?
- Do you smoke, drink (socially or otherwise), or "mixed swim?"
- Are you racially prejudiced?
- Do you consider it forsaking the assembly to be absent for:
  Sunday night worship?
  Wednesday night devotional?
  Wednesday night classes?
  Sunday School?
  Sunday morning worship?

An Experience Section would give leaders a perspective of what type of class to assign each teacher. Example questions:

- How many years have you taught?
- What age classes have you taught?
- What size classes have you taught?
- What books have you read on teaching and class discipline?
- Give an illustration of a discipline problem you once had and how you solved it.

Lastly, an Opinion Section would enlighten if detailed answers were given to questions like the following:

- Should a teacher be allowed to teach if they are habitually absent on Sunday night?
- Do you prefer a large class or a small? Why?
- What is your opinion of teaching the same class both Sunday and Wednesday?
- What age do you prefer to teach and what would the yearly objective be?
- What methods of discipline do you suggest?
- Underline modes of class discipline that you consider inappropriate . . . scold, humiliate, send child to parent, send someone for parent, sit child in a corner, give a demerit, take away a class privilege, spank, ridicule, shame, or send child to younger class.

There are many more questions that could be asked in each of the six areas suggested here. It may narrow down the number of teachers an eldership is willing to give a class, but it will promote quality classes with devoted teachers.
Teacher Evaluation

Teachers should not be above evaluation. It is a good practice to observe a teacher, especially when they are inexperienced, and learn first hand how capable they are of directing a class. Often teachers are selected on their domestic qualifications alone. They meet the domestic qualifications to be a deacon, elder, or the wife of a deacon or elder. Often teachers are given a class to groom them for a leadership position in the congregation. Sometimes Christians are given a teaching position to give them the qualification of being "apt to teach," not because they have ever taught, converted someone, demonstrated ability, or even possess the desire. It is unfortunate to have a teacher who has been placed in or appointed to the position of teaching who apparently has no desire to teach.

Modern times have brought large buildings for the church to meet. Over the years it has become the custom to have a class for every age, grade, sex, marital status, and even sometimes occupation as in a Young Professionals Class. Tradition can become a hindrance when men look to it rather than the purpose that started it. It is like the young wife who was preparing a ham for dinner and her husband saw her cutting off the ends of the ham before she put it into the large pan to bake it. Her husband asked her why she was cutting the ends off. She said, "I don't know; my mother always did it that way." She wondered why herself. So, she called her mother and asked her. The mother's response was, "Darling, I cut the ends off to make it fit in the pan!" Now, ask yourself why must congregations have a class for every grade? Why can't the three, four and five year olds be combined with one teacher? Yes, it is an advantage to have classes where the children are at the same maturity level. But, what is more important, a class for each grade/age or qualified teachers? Just because traditionally your Bible department has had separate classes does not mean it is more important than having teachers that are qualified to teach. It is unforgivable for an eldership to have someone teaching that forsakes the assembly. No congregation needs a teacher that badly. It would be better to combine all ages in one large assembly and have a qualified teacher than to condone such a contradiction. Raymond Hayes, a dear friend of mine and faithful Christian and teacher, tells me that years ago the Gospel Advocate sold Bible story cards for teaching the children. Most country congregations had what they called "The Card Class." The buildings were small. Some Card Classes were held in the back of the auditorium and the adult class was at the front. The Card Class teacher taught all the children. Raymond taught such a class when he was a young man, and he still considers it to be the most successful class he's had the privilege to teach. Now, there is nothing wrong with having classes for every age, but it is not the only way to teach. What is wrong is to have an unqualified teacher just to say you have a teacher for that age.

Be considerate of people's feelings when conducting an evaluation. If a teacher is shy about an adult evaluating her class she may want to tape her class several weeks and give the tapes to someone to evaluate. A general teachers meeting would be the best way to introduce the idea of evaluating. If someone just shows up to evaluate a class, especially with no prior notice, the teacher may be insulted. Thoroughly explain the need and point of evaluation to your teachers and there should be no objection. You could have the teachers evaluate each other rather than a committee or eldership. Do not encourage anonymous evaluations. Anonymity encourages cruelty, harshness, and even dishonesty. Evaluations must be kind and tactful. An evaluation should have positive results. Teachers encouraging each other with their impressions and suggestions should only bring improvement. It should not be seen as a threat but an opportunity to share ideas for discipline, organization, and participation. Use this method to spur on your teachers to spiritual growth. Help them to be all they can be.

The following sentences are possible positive comments for evaluating a class:

Positive Comments:
- The teacher has good character and rare moral qualities.
- The teacher unconsciously inspired the students because of her own interest and eloquence.
- The teacher knew the lesson so well she was able to watch her pupils as she taught. The teacher is very successful at encouraging the students to memorize.
- The teacher has been very successful in getting the parents involved.
- The teacher seemed to have a key to open the door to the pupil's minds.
- The teacher used language common to the students.
- The teacher got the attention of the pupils by stimulating their interest.
- The lesson was fastened by reviewing to test and prove the teaching done.
- The lesson followed a natural order from that which the pupils knew to the unfamiliar.
- The pupils were often in the attitude of a discoverer or anticipator.
- The pupils seemed to be anxious to participate.
- The pupils expressed in their own language what they were learning.

Many teachers believe the only instructional technique is positive reinforcement, especially when it comes to being instructed themselves. (Yet, notice the red pencils are still around!) Clearly this concept has never been whole-heartedly or singularly accepted. Errors must be recognized before they can be corrected. Ignoring them will not make them go away. Just as a poor English student will not correct subject verb agreement on his own, a teacher may not correct an error of judgment in the way class is conducted on her own. Instruction must come before improvement. Students, especially children, already know they have a lot to learn. But, teachers have pride and have attained to a position of authority so to them advise is unwelcome.

to help other souls, to add energy, inspire hope, and blow the coals into a useful flame, to redeem defeat by new thought and firm action, this though not easy, is the work of divine men.

Galileo said, “You cannot teach a man anything. You can only help him discover it within himself.” That is the trick isn’t it? The tactic most useful here is to make them think it was their idea. When adult pride is being considered flaws must be treated in the context of nurturing capacity rather than as a process of revealing ignorance. Admittedly it is a delicate task. Words like: creativity, quality, techniques in setting goals, reflection, insight, conclusion, attitude, and ability may be helpful as you try “to help him discover it within himself.”

It is impossible to make people understand their ignorance; for it requires knowledge to perceive it, and therefore he that can perceive it hath it not. --Jeremy Taylor

To be ignorant of one’s ignorance is the malady of ignorance. --Amos Bronson Alcott

Any frontal attack on ignorance is bound to fail because the masses are always ready to defend their most precious possession, their ignorance. --Hendrik Van Loon

The following negative comments are crassly expressed. They are not meant to be solely used. Though they may be vividly true to the situation you confront, you must present them with nurturing, compassion, consideration, honesty, and discretion or not at all.

Negative Comments:

- The teacher was more interested in warm appeals to feelings than skillful instruction.
- The teacher did not know the lesson well, and it was reflected in her teaching.
- The teacher tried to hide lack of knowledge with high-sounding phrases.
- The teacher assumes it is the student's work, not his, to study the lesson.
- The teacher obviously has a low estimation of the intelligence of the pupils.
- The teacher did not teach the lesson the students had prepared.
- The teacher was so unprepared it was like a messenger without a message.
- The teacher began the class before securing the pupil's attention.
- The class gave this teacher only passive attention.

As you can see from these positive and negative lists there are many things to look for when evaluating. There are others you will need to add to the list to fit the circumstances of each class. Many common sense points can be addressed like, the pictures were all too high on the wall for the children to see, the teacher sings the songs too fast for the children to keep up, the teacher talks too softly, the room is too junky, or the bulletin board is old. There are good points to make too like the teacher's visuals were excellent, original ideas for learning activities, talented story telling, or beautifully decorated and clean room.

Listed below are some suggested sentences and sentence “stubs” intended to express non-threatening evaluations.

Sentence Stubs For Evaluations:

- The presentation made me feel . . .
- I enjoyed . . .
- The students enjoyed . . .
- The high point of the class was . . .
- The class relearned . . .
- It was typical in that . . .
- I was concerned about . . .

Teachers receive a greater condemnation (James 3:1) for the errors they may make. It is, therefore, good for them to be open to suggestion and evaluation. They have to " . . . be ready always to give an answer to every man that asks you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear" (1 Peter 3:15).
Teaching Violations

The worst violation a Bible teacher can make is to be an unfaithful Christian. The hypocrisy of teaching God's will for man and not living what you teach may damage the faith of your students. Good character and a spotless example are imperative qualifications of a Bible teacher. It is inexcusable to teach faithfulness when you are unfaithful. You are condemning yourself (Romans 2:1). How can you teach your class the importance of attendance when you do not attend all the services of the church? How can you warn your students against the evils of drinking, smoking, dancing, mixed swimming, or cursing if you do them? Teaching is 90% teacher. Do not underestimate the influence of your moral character and good example.

Though “the words of the wise be as nails fastened by the masters of assemblies,” yet their examples are the hammer to drive them in to take the deeper hold. A father that whipped his son for swearing, and swore himself whilst he whipped him did more harm by his example than good by his correction.

--Fuller

Do not accept the responsibility of a class if you do not have the time. Each lesson needs to be diligently prepared. Truth must be clearly understood before it can be vividly felt. No matter how many times you have taught Noah and the ark or Daniel and the lions den a fresh reading of the text and thoughtful preparation for class will provide clearness of vision and enthusiasm. A half prepared teacher's presentation will be cold and lifeless. The teacher must know that which she would teach. The secret of enthusiasm is to know the subject matter well. It will make your recitation effortless so as to be able to watch the faces of your students and register their reaction, their first recognition of truth.

Many teachers go to class partly or entirely unprepared. It is a violation of teaching to have the philosophy it is the student's responsibility to study and not the teachers.

He who has no inclination to learn more will be very apt to think that he knows enough.

--Powell

Students can tell if the only reason their teacher has all the answers is because she owns the Teacher's Book with the answers printed inside. Many teachers who use printed material with fill in the blanks are really ignorant enough to think they are "teaching" when they have the class read the book aloud in class, (maybe paragraph by paragraph by students), read the text, and then ask students to volunteer to answer the fill in the blanks. Hearing lessons read is not teaching. It would be better for most of our junior high and high school classes to be in an adult class, taught by a capable teacher, than off in that small classroom down the hall with a teacher that uses this method of teaching. Invariably there are behavior problems in those classes like writing on the furniture, talking, or slipping out. No wonder . . . they are bored to death. Also, they know the adults do not think enough of their age group to give them the best teachers or even a decent teacher.

The teacher who tries to conceal his lack of preparation does a worse wrong. High-sounding phrases, fancy words, and solemn platitudes that try to go "over the students heads" will not endear you to the students. The teacher, who can get the lesson down "to where the calves can eat it" so to speak, has thoroughly prepared and thought the concepts through. It is important to know the lesson well enough that it can be presented in the language of the students. Clear and ordinary words are important to make the lesson familiar. Even when teaching adults you may realize your class has a "poverty of speech." A plain expression of the lesson will avoid distorted understandings.

Learning is like mercury, one of the most powerful and excellent things in the world in skillful hands; in unskillful, the most mischievous. –Pope

The teacher must be prepared to confront any false doctrine or uncertain comment brought up in class. When students make comments that raise eyebrows and cause bewilderment the teacher does not have the prerogative of ignoring the comment. Teachers must be prepared to make clear what the student intended to say and refute it if it is error. If such uncertain sounds are overlooked soon the confusion will become more overt and the ones presenting error in your class will gain support for their ideas. False teachers must be firmly and quickly stopped. Bible class can have a negative influence if the teacher makes the mistake of being unprepared and tries to remain neutral during controversy. Teachers must possess a decisive, informed faith. If a class has students that cause conflict with their comments then the teacher should switch to a lecture format thus keeping the class in his control. It is foolish for the teacher to invite comments on the lesson when he knows it invites trouble.

Yes, a class where the students participate by adding their personal comments can be an excellent learning environment but only so if the class has knowledgeable Bible students that make germane comments. When a student takes over a class by dominating the discussion or diverting from the prepared lesson it is the teachers’ fault. A prepared teacher will not lose control of his/her class.

Filling the time is the goal of many teachers. They hastily look through their lesson and decide they know it well enough to "fill the time." If necessary they will tell a rambling story about someone at work, or whatever, to "fill in the time." This is an effort to try to make it look like they just got off track trying to illustrate a point. Many teachers have done this kind of teaching for a long time they panic when asked to teach a VBS class where they have twice the time with the students. Or, if they are given a class that has only one or two students, they panic. “What can I do with one student to ‘fill the time?’” They are telling on themselves when they have this reaction to these situations. They are admitting they usually "fill the time" letting the students color, play, or talk. It is the most advantageous situation to have only one student! Why do you think so many parents pay big bucks to have a personal tutor for their child? They want that one-on-one personal attention that will help them improve their grades! There is nothing more precious than to have only one student, put them in your lap and tell them a lesson of faith. There is nothing more valuable than plenty of time to discuss matters of faith and nothing more desirable than to have more of it.

The highest function of the teacher consists not so much in imparting knowledge as in stimulating the pupil in its love and pursuit.

Underestimating your students is unproductive. The youth of your students or their ignorance may cause you to underestimate them. If you underestimate them you will make lesser goals or no goals at all. You will neglect careful preparation for class. You will have a cheater in your class, and it will be you.

It is appalling to see a Bible class of even toddlers that has a toy box. Don't be a baby sitter. Be a teacher. Children can be taught even before they can talk. Toddlers can be taught songs and how to pray. Two year olds can be taught memory verses.

As for the ignorant or unlearned students that are an older age group, designing your own material offers you the opportunity to begin with fundamentals. Evaluate your class with written tests if you do not know your students well. I did this once and found a class of ten junior high girls did not even know one memory verse . . . not even John 3:16! That is where I started. We learned twenty-one memory verses in a year. They could not quote verses because they had never been expected to do so. Rather than underestimating you need to have high expectations.

Finally, let it be made clear that you are a teacher not a taskmaster. Never drive your students or use the incentive of fear, rather, be a counselor or guide. When stressful situations present themselves, when emotions (the student's and the teacher's) soar, do not react impulsively. The students themselves will readily let you know "you are not my mama." Biting remarks, threats, degrading, shaming, humiliating, or embarrassing are abuses of your power as a teacher and even as an adult. If you wish to improve your habits of communication and critique your presentation, may I suggest you tape your class, and later listen to the recording from the student's point of view.

I study much, and the more I study the oftener I go back to those first principles which are so simple that childhood itself can lisp them.

Class Time Schedule

Always arrive early. An empty classroom is frightening to some children. At the least it is not very welcoming. Also, the parents will be forced to wait in the room for you to arrive before they can go to their class. This is really inconvenient if they are also teachers and need to be greeting their class. Teachers who are repeatedly late are saying by their behavior, "I have more important things to do," "the class is not important to me," and "I am not prepared." Teachers need to arrive early to check the classroom for cleanliness, set up the visuals (i.e., set up a video or film projector, put up flannelgraph, or maps), fill out the attendance chart as children arrive, and gather her thoughts. The time taken to do all these should not lap over into the hour you have for teaching.

An activity table or learning center is excellent for interesting the early arrivers. It shows the students that their teacher wants them to actively participate in learning. Imagine a table with leaves of every shape, a bug collection, a shell collection, a rock collection, etc. for the lesson on creation. The activities should always apply to the lesson or memory work they are currently learning. Unconnected subjects like a holiday (Thanksgiving turkeys, Christmas Santas, Valentine hearts) or a cartoon character teaching secular subjects (abc’s or 123's) will be out of place. The point of a learning center is to inspire the students to learn the Bible lesson.

It is good to have a signal for when it is time for class to begin. If your congregation does not have a hallway bell that rings for class to start, you may want to have a small bell just for your class. This will aid you in getting the children in their seats. Begin by letting each child have a “Turn To Talk.” This is the best way to ensure their attention and helps keep discipline. “Taking turns” is a concept learned at a very early age. This exercise will teach the class how to listen. It also will demonstrate your personal interest in each child.

VIGNETTE

Morgan: “Teacher, Teacher guess what, guess what!”
Teacher: “Just a minute Morgan, I’m filling out the roll.”
Morgan: “I was playing with Ryan . . . “
Teacher: “Come in Amy, work on your handouts till I get the roll done.”
Morgan: “Ryan and I were playing by the woods.”
Teacher: “Good morning Nikki and Jimbo. Did you bring your Bibles?”
Amy: “We were late because . . .”
Teacher: “Everyone be quiet now. It is time to start class. Get your Bibles and open to Genesis”
Morgan: “Ryan’s dog got stolen”
Teacher: “Quiet now and let me see if you remember where Genesis is found.”
Amy: “Teacher, there was a train”
Teacher: “Please no more talking, open your Bibles to Genesis.”

This kind of communication is inconsiderate. How can you expect someone to listen to you if you refuse to listen to them? But, notice the difference in this next vignette.

VIGNETTE

Morgan: “Teacher, Teacher guess what, guess what!”
Teacher: “Oh, you have something exciting to tell today. Why don’t you save it until everyone is here and tell the whole class? I need to fill out this roll, and you need to work on your hand out . . . Good morning Amy. Come in Nikki and Jimbo!”

Amy: “We were late because of the train.”
Teacher: “Again! Morgan, you were the first one here today so, why don’t you tell your exciting news first?”

Morgan: “Ryan and I were playing in the woods Saturday, and we found his dog.”
Teacher: “Was his dog lost?”

Morgan: “Yes, some robbers came to his house yesterday night, and his dog got scared. I heard it barking.”

Teacher: “Did the dog run the robbers away?”

Morgan: “I don’t know, but they stole his dad’s lawn mower.”

Teacher: “I’m glad you found his dog.”

Morgan: “Me too. We always play with him. He was all muddy.”

Teacher: “He must have been happy to be found. Amy’s turn to talk.”

Amy: “We were late. There was a train, so we had to go all the way around.”

Teacher: “I always know when you are late it is because of that train.”

Amy: “I have on my mother’s ring.”

Teacher: “How pretty it is! Nikki did you want to tell the class anything today?”

Nikki: “I spent the night with my grandmother last night.”

Teacher: “Did she bring you to church this morning?”

Nikki: “Yes, but I’m going home with my mommy after church.”

Teacher: “You have such a sweet grandmother. Jimbo, how are you today?”

Jimbo: “Fine. I have on new shoes.”

Teacher: “Really! I bet you can run fast in those”

Jimbo: “I can. I can run faster than anybody.”

Teacher: “Well, it is my turn to talk. I’m so glad everyone is ready to study God’s Word. Please, turn to Genesis in your Bibles.”

Allowing the students to tell what is on their mind helps get it off their mind! Can you imagine trying to teach the class when Morgan wanted to tell about that dog the entire time? I don’t think he would be thinking too much about Genesis. Yes, the second vignette is a little longer but after it, you have the full attention of the children. Also, you have taught them how to be considerate in conversation, and how to listen.

If you have shy or introverted students the “turn to talk” time may begin with a lull. Get some ideas from the following suggestions to draw out their cooperation:

- Are those new shoes?
- What is the most exciting thing that has happened to you in the last week?
- What was something you did to make someone happy this week?
- Suppose you had a magic box of any size or shape. What would be in it to make you happy?
- If you could teach the world just one thing what would it be?
- What did you learn this week that you are excited about?

Of course any personal references like, do you have a brother or sister, a dog, a bike? . . . will always work with little ones. Also, there is something about shoes that very small (2 to 4 year old) children love to talk about! They are always so proud of their shoes. Maybe because at church they usually have on their special Sunday shoes, I don’t know. Usually each child answering the same question starts enough conversation. In fact getting them to stop talking will be the challenge. If this is a problem, just confine each student to telling one thing. Stop them when they try to move on to another subject, and let them know it is someone else’s turn. You end the “time to talk” by saying it is your turn to talk. The time taken for the “time to talk” will be well spent. A group rapport and unity will develop and enhance the class with positive participation.

Next, each child needs to recite his or her memory work. This is often neglected in Bible classes because teachers feel they do not have the time. But memorizing God’s Word (Deut. 6:6-9; 11:19-21) is important enough to make time. Refer to the chapter on memorization for detailed suggestions regarding this important part of class. Young children memorize so easily it is a shame to ever have a class that does not emphasize memorization. If you have never made memorization a weekly part of your teaching, you will be amazed at their ability. Most printed material has a suggested memory verse for each lesson that is ignored by parents and teachers alike. These verses if ever quoted are rarely retained. Writing your own material will allow you to choose the memory work and take all the time you deem necessary for you to be satisfied that every child has reached the goal you set.

Then review the last lesson. Always begin with something they already know. If the subject is wholly new, then begin by showing some likeness of the new to something known and familiar. This is where teaching in chronological order is so logical. Your next lesson is usually going to have a genealogical connection to the previous lesson. Reviewing is the best starting point for a lesson. You can avoid the error of keeping the study too long on familiar ground with the “Class Participation Game.” (See the last section in Class Discipline).

Teach the lesson only when you have the attention of all the students. You can’t teach a child anything if they are not listening. Make every new fact familiar to your pupils. Establish the lesson firmly so it will be a building block for future lessons. Encourage the children to express what they have learned in their own language. An excellent way to connect the new lesson with those gone before is a “Chronology Chart.” This visual needs to be a fixture in every classroom.

Application of the lesson may be incorporated in the lesson section or come after. Your main application is for them to learn the facts. Send home a “Review Question” handout for the parents to teach the lesson at home. The motivation for them to study this handout is the “Class Participation Game.” The very questions on the handout are asked in class for “Participation Points.” Of course there are many ways to apply lessons, and you have the opportunity to do so since you are writing your own lessons.
Your ClassRoom

The aesthetic beauty and cleanliness of your classroom shows your interest in teaching, respect for the students and respect for yourself. Teaching God’s Word is a noble task. True, God’s Word can be taught anywhere. It can (and has been) taught to Kings in palaces and to the lowliest of prisoners in miry dungeons. That is not the point though in regard to your classroom. You have responsibility over the beauty and cleanliness of your classroom. You are responsible for the presentation of God’s Word there. You can make it a place that demonstrates your vivid interest in teaching and your respect for your students and yourself.

The golden rule in regard to your classroom is “treat it like it was yours.” What mother would allow a child to put a thumb tack in a wooden door in their home? None in my family I assure you. Yet most classroom doors in church buildings are ruined with them. Also, what is it about those plastic clips that firmly adhere to the wall for hanging pictures? No one EVER takes them down! They’ll take down the pictures and leave 20 or 30 of those things stuck all over the wall for no good reason. They even get painted over sometimes. The same problem occurs with plastic tack. It is great to use instead of tape, but be sure to take it down when you remove the picture. Some small children think it is gum, and they may get a surprise when they try a taste. The point is, do your best to make your room attractive. How cute is a picture if it is hung with silver refrigerator tape? Even little children recognize tacky.

Bulletin boards can be so easy if you use a stapler with regular sized staples. Tape gets old, damages pictures, and takes too long to use. Plastic tack discolors paper and doesn’t hold heavy pictures. Straight pins are dangerous for a class of small children. They also make the bulletin board look like a porcupine. Staples are definitely the way to go. But never use those BIG staples! They ruin the bulletin boards by ripping up the cork, and they ruin your pictures. Besides, what is the point here? Is a hurricane wind going to whip up suddenly or something? Those large staple guns are for upholstering furniture!

Usually congregations have a person to clean the church building each week. Unfortunately, they usually just clean the auditorium, bathrooms, and hallways. The classrooms may get a deep cleaning once a year at VBS or something. So, if you are not cleaning your classroom it is not getting cleaned. The trash may be dumped but the pins and tacks on the floor, the shelves filled with literature from a previous teacher, desks and table tops marked with the use of crayons, clay and markers, spider webs, dirty windows . . . are never given attention. Especially if you teach young children, you need to disinfect the desk tops/table top. This is emphasized in the nursery and toddlers classes but is usually neglected in primary classes. Yet children in the Primary Department are bad about putting their fingers in their mouth/nose. If we will all flash back our memory to how uncomfortable a wobbly tooth hanging on by a thread can be or how strange a sensation it is to suddenly have a huge hole where just yesterday was a tooth or even how painful swollen aching gums are when a molar is cutting through, then I think we may have some idea of the child’s dilemma. A tip about how to handle this habit is to have tissues nearby to hand to a student that puts his finger in his mouth/nose. Without a word you will make a point and never interrupt the lesson.

Where do the children “check in” their personal items? It must be agreed upon, and the teacher must be consistent about this. It must be a safe place where no one will be allowed to touch or play with it without permission. Children will bring pictures they have done at home of the Bible story, a doll that they named Moses, or a rock they think is beautiful. Their things are for their turn to talk. Children are overprotective of their possessions. This personal item “check in” place is important for discipline. It is hard to teach with distractions from home stealing all the attention. Yet, it is great for demonstrating to the children that they are important. What they like, think, feel, and do can be expressed and respected. I once had a class of three 4 year old girls who loved baby dolls. They always brought them to class. At first I was disgusted, and told my husband “Why do the parents encourage this?” and “Do they think my class is a time to play?” That was my point of view. Then I wised up, and I thought about it from the child’s point of view. Children act out what they admire! They were working hard at learning to be mommies. I borrowed a small crib and put it in my classroom for the “babies” to sleep in through class. I stole the hearts of those little girls by acknowledging them, and by letting them know I understood what they feel, like and do. It never caused a problem. Instead, it opened up an avenue of communication with these quiet little girls who barely spoke to most people.

Look at your classroom from the students’ point of view. When you are alone there, get down on your knees and imagine it is your first glimpse of it. What do you notice first? What impresses you the most? What distracts you most? Sit in each students chair and at their height try to see the visuals (i.e. flannel graph, story pictures, film screen, memory chart, videos). Always have learning centers, games, or books to create interest. It is a high compliment to me as a teacher to walk by my room after church to see children there. It demonstrates they feel comfortable and welcome in my room. Aesthetics make a difference. Interest, time and a little money can help gain the attention of the class.

VIGNETTE

Sally was a visitor. She was early for Sunday School. A nice lady took her down the hall to the first grade. Sally was in the first grade. But, there were two first grade classes. She could choose either one. The first room was dark with only a narrow ray of light coming in through a heavy curtain. Sally turned on the light switch. No one was there. Sally was a little afraid. She stepped into the room. The desks were old, written on, and scarred. A bulletin board had a winter scene with snowflakes, which was strange since it was June. The colors used on the bulletin board, the curtains, and other decorations were loud primary colors. There was some kind of long picture way up high, but Sally could not see what it was. The desks were cluttered, the shelves were cluttered, there was a dead plant near the window, and crayons everywhere.

Sally decided to have a look at her other choice. The first thing she noticed was someone was there, the teacher. She looked up at Sally and smiled a quiet hello while Sally surveyed the room. Lots of light streamed in through a beautifully decorated window. It had beige mini blinds and rose balloon curtains. The walls looked freshly painted a blushing beige. About the height of a waistcoat there was a six inch wallpaper border of rose and blue hearts and bows. Instead of the scarred desks there was a Formica topped table for the children to share with the teacher. There were small chairs around the table and activities laid out for the children to do until class began. There were two lovely matted and framed pictures at Sally’s eye level. The bulletin board was covered with marbled wallpaper topped with the same border as the walls, and in the center a list of the Old Testament books were mounted. The shelves were orderly. There was a silk plant. The teacher had her visual aides stacked by her ready to teach. She was kind. She asked Sally what her name was and never forgot it. Of course, Sally didn’t notice all this at first glance. She chose this room over the first one. In a short time that classroom became Sally’s favorite place to be.
Class Discipline

Is it necessary to have a war in your classroom before you can have a peaceful lesson? Do you have to have an arsenal of weapons to defeat the enemy before peace is proclaimed long enough to get through the lesson? Don’t feel you are unfit to teach because of the anger students provoke in you. A teacher is not without emotions. It is necessary to master the secret of controlling yourself and not insulting the student. The problem must be attacked not the person. The teacher must win the respect of the class by acknowledging feelings, showing acceptance, use of humor, and never embarrassing. The language of rejection: blaming, shaming, accusing, ridiculing, belittling, ordering, bossing and bribing will damage communication of any kind. An expert in the field of teaching, G. Ginott says, “To reach a child’s mind you must first capture his heart.” The way you respond to difficult situations can either open minds or close them.

Love the unlovable. The anti-social behavior of a child may be an indication of insecurity caused by unfortunate situations in the home. It is always helpful to know the students well. “The only reason I always try to meet and know the parents better is because it helps me to forgive their children” (Louis Johannot). Every time you see your “problem student,” especially out of class, respond to him with lots of attention and recognition. Find something to talk to him about. If it is a young child always give him a hug. Let your face light up like you are thrilled to see him. After a short time you will have “acted your way into a better way of feeling.” It is hard to hide dismay or dislike. It is even hard to admit you have those emotions toward a child. Changing yourself will change the child. He will become a better student when he experiences your love. “We love Him because he first loved us” (1 John 4:9) is a beautiful passage that demonstrates human nature. When someone loves you it is easier to love them.

If in instructing a child, you are vexed with it for want of adroitness, try, if you have never tried before, to write with your left hand, and then remember that a child is all left hand. --J.F. Boyse

As the teacher your expectations of the students will make all the difference. Discipline problems will be avoided when you convey to the class their responsibility as learners. Expect something from them. This quotation from Maria Montessori is very significant, “The first idea that the child must acquire, in order to be actively disciplined, is that of the difference between good and evil; and the task of the educator lies in seeing that the child does not confound good with immobility, and evil with activity.”

Blank stares and immobility are what many, even teenage and adult students, think is expected of them. They are “being good.” How did this concept of learning come about? Well, it began in preschool classes when nothing was expected of the students. Those 2, 3, 4, and 5 year olds are now 12, 13, 14, and 15.
Getting a gold star on the attendance chart for being present and bringing your Bible is not all there is. Learning by osmosis doesn’t produce Bible scholars or Bible teachers.

Look at the class from the student’s point of view for effective discipline. The word discipline has a negative connotation and brings to mind punishment, but as a Bible teacher it is not your position to punish. Discipline to you means order. You want order in your class so you can have the attention of every student. The best way to start promoting discipline/order is to get on your knees. Sound strange? Literally look at the room from the child’s point of view. If there are a lot of distractions at their reach (i.e., toy box, puppets, too many pictures, junky) this will make it difficult to even keep them in their chairs if they are very young. Students need to check their purses, coats, even Bibles, and especially toys at the door. Yes, even a Bible can be fidgeted with. Getting students attention is 99% of the battle.

They don’t care how much you know until they know how much you care. Before class begins give every child an opportunity to have a turn to talk while everyone in class listens. This will let every child know that you think they are important. It will also teach them how to listen, not just be quiet. It will help you as the teacher to know your student’s interests and help you in becoming their friend, not just an old lady that teaches them in Sunday School. It will also promote friendships among the students. But most important to you, it will make your class more disciplined! Look at it from the student’s point of view. They come to class and they have something burning in their little mind to tell. Their dog died, the train caught them and made them late, they have new shoes . . . Then imagine their frustration and disappointment when they are not allowed to talk. Make the class their class. This “time to talk” will save you time. You might think it will take too long, but it will save all those frustrating interruptions in the middle of the Bible story because you can remind them it is your “turn to talk.” They will understand “turn.” They will cooperate with “we only have time for everyone to tell one thing.” They will feel part of the class and important when all the other students and the teacher listen quietly to them tell that one thing that is on their mind.

Time in class is precious and it must not be wasted with discipline problems. It is a shame for a teacher to feel after class that she might have covered more material if the class had not been so disorderly. Balki Bartokomous from Perfect Strangers television show once expressed his point of view on learning, “What a wonderful day we’ve had. You’ve learned something, and I’ve learned something. Too bad we didn’t learn it sooner. We could have gone to the movies instead.” Some classes are so disorderly they may as well be at the movies. Do not allow a student to interrupt the lesson because they want to tell something that you made them think of when you mentioned camels, or plagues, or whatever. They will trick you into listening to a long story that has nothing to do with the lesson and you will have a time trying to get the children’s minds back on the Bible lesson. When they try to interrupt just say “No, not now,” or “I’m telling the story,” or “you will have to tell me later.” Do it in a kind manner but be firm. This is where the “time to talk” idea softens the blow because they were allowed to talk earlier and now they must learn to listen. If as the teacher you have spent hours preparing and are excited about your lesson, you will not allow a child to take over the class time. Even in older classes it is not appropriate for the student to usurp the time. The student may know the subject well but, it is rude for them to be inconsiderate of the teacher’s authority.

Make the class challenging and interesting and you will be successful at discipline. Set their little minds on fire for God’s Word. Competition is an excellent method to challenge, keep student’s interest and even discipline. Keep a pencil in your hand every class period and score each child on their class participation. Do not encourage raised hands. Raised hands seems to contribute too much unruly excitement. Go in order, around the table or down the row so the children will know obviously whose turn it is to answer next. Give the student a point for every correct answer, and take away a point for bad conduct like talking out of turn. To make this game successful you will need a reward each class for the child with the most points. Have a prize box with small gifts they can choose from. Even gum is a real treat or a bookmark. You may need to have a second place prize if the same child always wins. You will be surprised how this “Class Participation Game” helps you gain control of your class and keep it. The competition from this game will create zeal for your class too. But, your zeal for the lesson is what is really vital. When you know the lesson well enough to make the characters “come alive” and you are zealous, it will be contagious.

Improvement depends far less upon length of tasks and hours of application than is supposed. Children can take in but a little each day; they are like vases with a narrow neck; you may pour little or pour much, but much will not enter at a time. --Michelet

May your students say this about you,

“She never criticized, she coaxed; she never pushed, she persuaded; she never insulted, she inspired; she gave an attentive ear, rather than a slashing tongue.”

Leave with them the conviction that their fate can be forged by their hope, faith and deeds. Make your class promote cooperation, communication, participation, service, leadership, responsibility, good habits, evaluation, experience, knowledge and above all FAITH.
Vocabulary

When introducing new material whether it is a new dispensation, new characters or just a new word, it is important to relate it first to something the pupils already know and understand. Many teachers make the mistake of teaching the alphabet in Sunday School in order to teach the class a Bible word or name. Wait until the students already know the alphabet before you try to use writing as a tool. Build upon what they already know. If they don’t already know how to write don’t try to get them to write. You only have them one hour a week. You are not responsible for their secular training. If you have students in your class who do not read well don’t use reading aloud as a tool for learning in your class. You will embarrass the class if you press them by trying to use one of these secular skills with the assumption they have already mastered it.

In teaching new words let the idea go before the word. Words are often an incomplete medium of thought. Especially when teaching preschool children it is important for them to see, touch and even smell to understand some words.

Touch: The word fleece when teaching about Gideon in Judges 6 may be difficult for a small child to grasp while looking at a picture of a sheep or odd shaped blanket. But, an actual fleece for the students to examine front and back and touch its softness will put this word in their vocabulary.

Smell: An example of appealing to the senses is with an illustration for the word incense. A picture of a small bowl with smoke ascending may make a child think of an ashtray. But, actual incense smoldering in your classroom will tell their noses what this word means.

Hear: Sound effects add to any story but can you define a word with it? Yes, Language in the story of the tower of Babel in Genesis 11 or, when relating the word tongues in Acts 2. A tape of someone speaking in other languages will make these words have definite meaning.

Taste: Many words can be illustrated by tasting. Venison and lamb in Genesis 27, Quail for Exodus 15, and unleavened bread for Exodus 12:39.

The teacher who is attempting to teach without inspiring the pupil with a desire to learn is hammering on cold iron. --H. Mann

Visual: Pictures, slides, films and objects are great for defining a word. “A picture can say a thousand words.” Slides and films get the students attention and artfully depict scenes. Objects such as sandals, a staff, a scroll, or a plated crown of thorns vividly identify vocabulary for students. Lesson one in the Yearly Outline makes use of objects. In that lesson a map, a love letter, a candle, and a treasure chest are used as metaphors to describe the Bible. The use of metaphors is helpful when trying to get a full definition, although this approach is near to impossible for very young children to grasp. For example, to a preschool child a map is a map, and when the teacher says, “the Bible is a map” it goes over their heads. Yet, an older student will receive a broader understanding of the Bible with the use of metaphors.

It is very helpful in making a story “come alive” to bring in emotions. Love, fear, loneliness, pride jealously, covetousness, thankfulness, and joy are all important words in understanding the Bible. The talented Bible teacher can relate these emotions with application stories, pictures and original ideas. For example, the surprise and joy at the wedding feast at Cana when Jesus turned water to wine can be illustrated by the teacher surprising her class: Take one clear glass of water and pour it into another glass which seems to be empty but really has a few drops of food coloring in it. When the water turns to a deep red the children will be excited. It will impress the class with the emotions of joy, excitement and surprise that must have been at the feast. Defining a vocabulary of emotions will help students understand the nature of God, the character of Bible personalities, themselves and others.

Demonstrates a father’s love for his child

Demonstrates love for brothers/sisters

Picture of a sad child sitting alone in a room--
Application story about repentance

Wrath of God upon the disobedient

These pictures and objects, if accompanied with a vivid application story that the students identify with, will help the class empathize with Bible characters.

Be understood in thy teaching, and instruct to the measure of capacity. Precepts and rules are repulsive to a child, but happy illustration wins him. --Tupper

An excellent approach to teaching the Bible is to have vocabulary words that you present along with your lessons. Just as in any subject in school a special vocabulary is needed for teaching the Bible. Subject, verb, punctuation and fiction are examples of vocabulary words for an English class where, projection, understudy, diction and lead would be vocabulary in a Drama class. In a Bible class it is important to learn Bible words for Bible things. Older classes need vocabulary too. By the time a student is an adult definitions of Grace, Faith, Baptism, and Miracles will be vital to him in defending the One True Faith. Just as a preschool teacher never overlooks a chance to make the lesson vivid in the mind of the child with the use of understandable vocabulary, a high school or adult teacher needs never assume words are understood. It is always impressive to read the presentation of propositions in debate books. Propositions are defined word by word. The purpose of this is that sometimes the arguments hang on the definition of one word. Hours of debating have taken place over the simple word for (Acts 2:38). Vocabulary is important when studying God’s Word no matter what the age of the student.

Notice how people who believe denominational doctrines will change or ignore certain words and their true definitions. If you are familiar with denominational doctrines you will recognize these verses and the words indicated as illustrations for this phenomenon:

- Remission (Acts 2:38)
- Fall (1 Corinthians 10:12)
- Should (John 3:16)
- Wash (Acts 22:16)
- Singing (Ephesians 5:19)
- Baptism (Mark 16:16)

It is confusing, if not down right impossible, to have a Bible discussion with someone who does not use Bible words for Bible things. For instance there are people who believe one can be saved by faith alone. When you respond with James 2:19-24, Luke 13:3 and Romans 10:9 they may reply, “I believe faith includes confession and repentance.” Yet, the Bible definition of faith (Hebrews 11:1) does not include these other two items. They are separate steps with special definitions of their own. It is useless to try to discuss any subject with someone that writes their own definitions to words. I actually knew a woman who called Moses, Jesus. She said, “Jesus held up his rod and the Red Sea divided.” When I questioned her about this she said, “You say Moses, I say Jesus it is all the same.” But it is not all the same is it?

I saw a cartoon once that pictured a woman speaking from a jury box with 11 other jurors. The caption read, “I don’t want to be a juror, can’t I be a witness?” I thought when I read that . . . many of our denominational friends won’t get the joke. Denominational people use the word witness in ways just as confusing. To be a witness you must have seen something with your own eyes. I can’t be a witness to a murder I never saw. No one today has ever seen Jesus. No one today can be a witness. We can be followers of Him for we have His Word to direct us. The Apostles were witnesses of Christ. Many of the people in the first century were witnesses of Christ, and they could tell about the miracles they had seen and the teaching they had heard to others. It is incorrect to use the word witness in ways like: “I am a witness for Christ,” “I want to witness to you,” “My life is a witness for Christ” or “I must stay faithful so as not to damage my witness.” I think this incorrect use of the word witness began with religious people who claimed to have seen Jesus, to have the power to do miracles, the ability to talk to Jesus or have dreams where they see Jesus. They convinced people that they were witnesses of Christ because they claimed to have seen Him. This of course gave them more influence and authority than other people. They were privileged to have seen Jesus. They were witnesses. Others wanted this influence so they claimed to be witnesses also. On and on the word was carelessly used and now most religious people consider the word witness to be synonymous with the word Christian.
There are versions of the Bible that have changed the meaning of words and thus the meaning of scripture. The motivation of “translators” is to get their favorite creed written right into the Book. The most popular version that is guilty of this is the New International Version. Notice the dishonesty and serious problems that result:

ERRORS IN THE NIV:

The doctrine of Total Depravity is promoted by omitting the word flesh and substituting “sinful nature” in several passages (Rom. 7:5, 18, 25; 8:3, 4, 8, 12, 13; Gal. 5:16, 19; and Col. 2:11-13).

The doctrine of Original Sin is flagrant in the translation of Psalm 51:5.

Pentecostalism is supported with errors of translation in the NIV with 1 Cor. 2:14 (“without the Spirit”); 1 Cor. 12:13 (“drinking the Spirit”) and 13:10 (“perfection”).

Faith only is supported by adding “first to last” in Rom. 1:16-17.

God’s law on divorce and remarriage is softened in the NIV’s version of Matthew 19:9.

Romans 12:1 teaches everything is worship.

Acts 16:14 has Lydia’s heart miraculously opened.

By changing “should” to “shall” in John 3:16 of the NIV the doctrines of Once Saved Always Saved and Belief Only are conveyed.

The NIV has placed doubt on Mark 16:9-20 by setting it off from the text and a note made saying: [The most reliable early manuscripts and other ancient witnesses do not have Mark 16:9-20.] Yet the truth is that literally thousands of cursive manuscripts include these verses. It is only omitted in 2 manuscripts, and they leave a place for it; as if the copier knew of it’s existence, but they didn’t have access to it.

The NIV omits verses! Look in a NIV and try to find Mt. 17:21, Mt. 18:11, Mk. 7:16, 1 Tim. 3:16, Jn. 5:7 for example. Shocking isn’t it? The NIV actually has 64,098 or 10% fewer words than the King James Version.

Encourage your students to use the King James Version. Its poetical style makes it the easiest to memorize. Its lofty use of the English language manifests reverence for every passage. It has been proven to be a most accurate translation.

No man ever did, or ever will become most truly eloquent without being a constant reader of the Bible, and an admirer of the purity and sublimity of its language. --Fisher Ames

Many parents and Christian schools unfortunately have encouraged children to read the NIV because it is easier to read. Yes, it is easier to read. THAT IS THE PROBLEM. Our children are reading and believing Pentecostalism, Catholicism and Calvinism. If you don’t think so, explain why we aren’t keeping our youth in the church, and why Christian high schools aren’t turning out Bible scholars who have had Bible taught to them for 12 years or sit down with your own children and quiz them on their Bible knowledge . . . you may be shocked at what your own child believes if his/her Bible is a NIV version.

Where are your pupils going to learn definitions to Bible vocabulary if not in Bible class? As a Bible teacher you have the opportunity to familiarize students with Bible vocabulary. It is up to you as their Sunday/Wednesday Bible teacher to teach this vocabulary. Their school teacher is not going to teach them. No way will they show up on a third grade spelling test. It is very unusual (sadly) if parents teach their children God’s Word to the extent of defining such a vocabulary list. So, you are the one to enlighten their minds and hearts with tools to increase their faith. When introducing a new word use the simplest and fewest words in expressing its meaning. Use short sentences. Use illustrations of natural objects and pictures. And, do not be content to have your pupils listen in silence. Always with young children make haste slowly. Test them frequently to see if your meaning has been conveyed.

As you write your lessons include vocabulary words in your material. You may have a printed list for the year or just emphasize words as they come along in your outlines. You may have a special vocabulary bulletin board or a file of cards for each child to take home and study. However you wish to design your material it will always be helpful to incorporate a new word or vocabulary list. Just as memorizing the books of the Bible is a tool forever important to their ability to study God’s Word efficiently, knowing accurate meanings to otherwise alien words will be a tool for much practical use.

Guide To Teaching Memorization

Choose your memory work carefully. No matter what age they are if the students do not know the books of the Bible, this is an important place to start. It is difficult to be a serious Bible student when you can’t find the reference fast enough to follow along in class or with the preacher’s texts. Learning the books of the Bible at a young age is invaluable. Not only the names of each of the 66 books but their abbreviations are important. Bible students must be familiar with Mt., Mk., Lk., Jn., etc. for reference books to be useful to them. Other choices you might choose are the Ten Commandments, the names of the Judges (sing to the tune of Ten Little Indian Boys), the tribes of Israel or just familiar passages like: Psalm 23, Matthew 5, John 3:16, Acts 2:38, Luke 13:3 . . . . Choose verses that will be helpful to the students in teaching others. Challenge your class to put their memorized verses to use by teaching a friend. Practice using them in class with scenario discussions. Provide time in class for students to share how they had opportunities to use their verses to teach others. Some verses may be chosen for their simple beauty, others for their ability to strengthen faith, but verses that can be used to convict people of sin and to encourage them to repent are like weapons that Christians wield (Eph. 6:10-17). Teenage and adult classes should never neglect memorization. It takes a brave teacher to insist upon it because of the many objections he/she will hear. It takes a conscientious teacher to test the class and set goals for them. It takes an inspirational teacher to encourage and love them and expect results.

MAKE MEMORIZATION AN IMPORTANT PART OF EVERY CLASS PERIOD

Especially with younger children it is helpful to have a certain time in the class period and be consistent. Have each child recite individually. If you try having them recite in unison it will not work as well. You will not be able to let each child progress at their own pace. Begin by having the student repeat after you a small portion of the first of the verse/books (i.e. the first five books of the Bible). With preschool children you may have to point to yourself when you recite and then to them to indicate it is time for them to repeat what you quoted. This will help them understand how to reciprocate, until they get the idea. If the child says no when asked to recite, you will have a problem with other students wanting to do the same. Do not allow this to become a problem by ignoring it. Use something as motivation. Take away a point from their score on class participation thus jeopardizing their prize or refuse them a turn for the next activity (during that same class period), and never underestimate a promise to discuss their resistance with their parent. Remember to always keep your promises lest they become a mere threat. If it becomes necessary to speak to a parent about a child’s unwillingness to take part be sure the child is present when you address the parent, and he will see you mean what you say. Also, the ideal time is right after class while it is fresh on the child’s mind. Be kind when speaking of the problem and use as many positive points as you can. Emphasize the importance for the child to cooperate and praise the child’s potential rather than criticizing his lack of cooperation. If other students are around and overhear your remarks to the parent they will be impressed with a teacher who is serious about learning, a teacher who thinks every student and every class is important.

GET THE PARENTS INVOLVED

A very effective tool in involving the parents is a pillowcase. Buy a pillowcase for each student and write the chosen memory work on it in a fabric paint pen. Decorate the border with a lovely stencil. This pillowcase will serve as a reminder to the child to recite his verse/books to his parents before going to sleep. It will often be the start of devotionals in the homes that even include a parent that is not a Christian. Another way to motivate the child and involve the parents is to have a goal in mind for the memorization. For example, have each child individually recite their memory work before the entire congregation at VBS or some other function such as open house. The parents will want their child to participate if all the other students are succeeding to reach the goal. And lastly, keep the parents informed as to the child’s progress.

Praise, praise, praise. Even if a child is way behind the other students he can be praised for his own individual progress with praise like: “That is wonderful,” “I’m so proud of you,” or “You have been working this week.” Think of good things to say and be genuine in expressing them. Getting all the other students to listen as each child recites is a form of positive motivation and the repetition is helpful.

Check out my example of how easy it is to memorize the 10 Commandments. I came up with this method when teaching a class of eight year old boys. It works so well most classes can memorize them in just a few minutes!

DIRECTIONS FOR USING THE CHART: Notice I have divided the chart in half. Use your hands to demonstrate the first and second halves. Your ten fingers are the Ten Commandments.

THE FIRST THREE
- The first three all begin with the words Thou shalt and concern the person of God.
- When repeating these first three emphasize the BOLD words: HAVE, MAKE, & TAKE.

THE 4TH AND 5TH
- The 4th and 5th are the only positively stated commandments of the 10. A thumbs up for the 4th will indicate it is positive! Also, the 4th is the only commandment that is not repeated in the New Testament. The trick to REMEMBERING this is of course, it begins with the word REMEMBER.
- The 5th has the HONOR of being the middle commandment. Point to a child and wag your finger as you say “HONOR thy father and mother!”

THE 6TH THROUGH THE 10TH
- Continue to hold up your fingers on your left hand for the first five commandments and now hold up your pointer finger on your right hand for the 6th. Point your finger like you are shooting a gun as you say the 6th commandment.
- For the 7th your right hand shows two fingers . . . it takes two people to commit adultery. [To explain what adultery is to younger children just explain it is a man and a woman who act like they are married but they are not really married.]
- For the 8th your right hand shows three fingers . . . this is the boy scout salute. Boy scouts would never STEAL.
- The 9th is of course 4 fingers on your right hand. This is the sign for the letter B in Sign Language. B is for BEAR false witness.
- For the 10th hold up all five fingers on the right hand and put your hand over your eyes shielding them. You COVET the things you see.
How To Answer

As a Bible teacher it is important for you to take all questions seriously that may come up in your class. Notice, they are to be “taken seriously” not necessarily answered by you immediately. You may not know the answer. If you do not know the answer admit it. This is important especially for the novice teacher to understand. You must learn to say, “I don’t know.” It is hard to take back a wrong answer. “Learn to hold thy tongue; five words cost Zacharias forty weeks of silence!” Just because you are the teacher does not mean you have an answer to every question your class may come up with. You may need to look the answer up, or ponder it before answering. But always help the student find an answer even if it means studying with them out of the class time.

There is advantage in taking time by thinking calmly and well upon the question. Nothing valuable can be lost by taking time. If there is a questioner who hurries you, in hot haste, to indulge in discussion you are unprepared for, stop and remind them that the question will not be frustrated by taking time; no good answer can be misconstrued if you take time for thorough preparation. Only answer when you are confident you are correct and can prove it. Confidence will allow you to have the boldness required to face adversity if necessary.

“A preacher without boldness is like a smooth file, a knife without an edge, a sentinel that is afraid to shoot his gun. If men will be bold in sin, ministers must be bold to reprove.”

“I don’t like those mighty fine preachers who round off their sentences so beautifully that they are sure to roll off the sinner’s conscience. --Rowland Hill

Give Scripture references for the positions you take. Do not just tell what others have thought or may think. If the student challenges your position it is important to present an answer that will appear sufficient, at least to some, why you think differently. Be confident from thorough preparation that you hold to the right side in the dispute that there will be no single good reason for precipitate proceedings. If your class gets into a heated discussion remind them everyone deserves respectful attention. They should never assail the motives of anyone, but they should strictly confine themselves to the naked merits of the question. Hopefully you will have students who are passionate about what they believe, but also hopefully they will be students who have bonds of affection for each other that no intense discussion can strain or break.

Treat your students with respect by responding to their comments and questions in positive ways. Not responding at all to a comment or question will speak volumes. Silence is not always golden. One silent treatment may discourage a student from ever adding to your class. At least a polite thank you is in order for their class participation.

The secret of education lies in respecting the pupil.
VIGNETTE:

An adult Bible class teacher loved putting his students on the spot. He would ask questions directly to individuals. His class in fact was just a barrage of questions, one after the other. He stood before the class as “the one with all the answers.” Students that wanted to ask him a question had to hold up a hand until finally recognized. Usually the teacher would answer in a matter of fact way, but sometimes (and too often for his students) he would say, “Well, I’ll turn that back on you!” and expect the student who had posed the question to answer it.

Every class at least two or three times he boisterously challenged “Well, I’ll turn that back on you!” When no one in the class knew the answer it was passed over and never again addressed. But, if another student courteously answered the question, the teacher’s comments in the discussion would often reveal he’d not answered because he’d not known the answer. This was just as suspected by one of his students. She figured out that he only said “Well, I’ll turn that back on you!” when he didn’t know the answer. She began to be perturbed at being treated so disrespectfully, and finally every time he called on her she imitated his boisterous “Well, I’ll turn that back on you!” She never again answered a question in his class.

WAYS TO ANSWER STUDENTS ARE:

- Take the time in class to find the answer.
- Devote the next class period to the question if it is deserving.
- Give a written answer to the individual.
- Pass copies of the written answer to all the students.
- Recommend a reference book for the students to research it themselves.
- Give scripture references for the student to research it for himself.
- Suggest the student ask his parents (or an elder) the question, especially if it is controversial.

You do not have to have all the answers just because you are the teacher.
Example Questions And Answers

This first question was asked by a junior high girl who was having a discussion with a friend at school. The answer is written in proposition form. The propositions are in the affirmative.

How can we teach our denominational friends that we are not saved by faith alone?

Propositions (affirmative):

1. Faith alone is not enough to save (Jas. 2:19, 2:24).

2. Faith qualifies one for further progress toward salvation (Jn. 1:12, Jn. 3:16).

3. Faith must be accompanied by obedience.

   How was Abraham’s faith made perfect (complete)? (Jas. 2:21-23).
   Of those who may say “Lord, Lord,” who will enter the kingdom of heaven? (Mt. 7:21).
   According to Gal. 5:6 what kind of faith is it that counts, or “avails” anything?
   When did Paul say we were made free from sin? (Rom. 6:17-18).

4. Forgiveness of sins, takes place at the point of baptism, NOT faith only.

   Whom does Jesus say “shall be saved” (Mk. 16:16).
   For what does Peter command baptism in Acts 2:38?
   What result does Paul attach to baptism in Acts 22:16?
   At what point is the Christian said to have risen with Christ? (Col. 2:12-13)?
   What does Peter say saves us (1 Pet. 3:21)?

   Some Biblical Examples Of Faith

   Who are cited as believers in Jas. 2:19? Would you consider them saved?
   When did Noah’s faith save his family? Heb. 11:7
   When did the Israelites’ faith save them from the Egyptians? Heb. 11:29
   For whom is Christ said to be the author (source) of salvation? Heb. 5:9

Who Will Be Rewarded With Eternal Life?
Mt. 7:21; Mt. 16:27; Mt. 25:34-35; Jn. 5:28-29; Rom. 2:6; II Cor. 5:10; 2 Thess. 1:8; Rev. 20:12
The next four questions were given at the same time by a seventh grade girl who had just changed schools. She had attended an elementary school where her mother was a teacher’s aide. Now she is in a totally new environment without the security of having her mother near. She is making all new friends. As is obvious she is becoming a teenager and facing new social situations on her own. Notice the answers are just pointing her to what the Scriptures say on the topic. She is left to make the practical application on her own. This is a good technique in answering teenagers who might not really want the answer you must offer; who might even argue that your suggestion of how to react to their friend is impractical or impossible . . . that you don’t understand their situation.

What do you do when your friend calls you a dirty word?

“For even hereunto were ye called because Christ also suffered for us leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps: Who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth: Who, when he was reviled, reviled not again: when he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously” (1 Pet. 2:21-23). “Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers. And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger and clamor, and evil speaking be put away from you, with all malice: And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another even as God for Christ’s sake hath forgiven you” (Eph. 4:29-32). “Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men. Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him: if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good” (Rom. 12:17-21).

How do you respond when your friend asks you why you don’t cuss like everyone else?

“But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear” (1 Pet. 3:15). “Be ye followers of me, even as I also am of Christ” (1 Cor. 11:1). “O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things. But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned” (Mt. 12:34-37). “If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man’s religion is vain” (Jas. 1:26).
What do you do when your friend teases you about something they did that you think is wrong, such as kiss a boy?

"Who art thou that judgest another man’s servant? To his own master he standeth or falleth. Yea, he shall be holden up: for God is able to make him stand . . . Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that no man put a stumblingblock or an occasion to fall in his brothers way . . . Let not then your good be evil spoken of “ (Rom. 14:4, 13, 16).

If my friend has a perverted mind and when you say something to her and she takes it the wrong way, are you supposed to laugh with her or just walk off?

"Be not deceived: evil communications corrupt good manners” (2 Cor. 15:33). “For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he may instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ” (1 Cor. 2:16). “Thy tongue deviseth mischiefs: like a sharp razor, working deceitfully. Thou lovest evil more than good: and lying rather than to speak righteousness. Thou lovest all devouring words” (Ps. 52:2-4). “He that walketh uprightly walketh surely: but he that perverteth his ways shall be known” (Prov. 10:9). Let your speech be alway with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man” (Col. 4:6).

Some questions from adolescents are a little obvious in their desire to trap. There are students who always try to embarrass the teacher by asking a question she/he can’t answer. They are pleased with themselves if they can corner or embarrass her/him. The following question was asked in the tone of a challenge during class. It was not on the subject being covered so, the student was asked to write it down, and it would be answered next week. The answer was also given in written form:

DEAR TEACHER:
If a person has sinned toward God on the same day as judgment and that person is sorry for that sin but has not prayed, repented, and asked for forgiveness, will that person still be saved?

Thank you,
Student

Read the following verses and let me know what you think a good answer would be to your question:

Luke 13:3 except I Chron. 28:9
Luke 17:3 If Ex. 34:7
Acts 17:30 I Pet. 4:17-18
Rev. 2:16 1 Cor. 9:27
Rev. 2:22 Ex. 18:24
Rev. 9:20 Heb. 10:25-31
Luke 15:7 I Jn. 1:9
The following question took me by surprise. This was a white high school girl who had gone to school with blacks all her life. She had the personality of one who was always for the underdog. She was a very sensitive girl. She’d cry when telling how hard she had prayed for a friend to be restored to Christ. I was glad her question was written, and I had a chance to ponder it. It gave me a chance to try and see what she was really asking.

Is it wrong for me to feel prejudice against someone because of the color of their skin?

Prejudice—Preconceived opinion or judgment. To be for/against without just grounds or sufficient knowledge. An irrational attitude of hostility directed toward an individual, race, or group.

Yes, it is wrong to be prejudiced against someone because of their color.

“Tribulation and anguish, upon every soul of man that doeth evil, of the Jew first, and also of the Gentile; But glory, honor, and peace, to every man that worketh good, to the Jew first, and also to the Gentile: For there is no respect of persons with God” (Rom. 2:9-11).

“But he that doeth wrong shall receive for the wrong which he hath done: and there is no respect of persons” (Col. 3:25).

“These things also belong to the wise. It is not good to have respect of persons in judgment” (Prov. 24:23).

“And if ye call on the Father, who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man’s work, pass the time of your sojourning here in fear” (1 Pet. 1:17).

“For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek” (Rom. 1:16).

But, knowing you the way I do, I do not think you are prejudiced against anyone for the reason of color. Answer these questions in your mind:

1. Do you have any black friends?
2. Do you think black people have souls?
3. Do you think the church here should continue our support of African missions?

I know you have given the appropriate answers to these questions. Yet, you still are confused about the way you feel about this subject. Examine your feelings. Isn’t the emotion you feel really related to the hate of authority, disrespect, filthy language, fornication, dishonesty and unwillingness to cease from sin you see in the lives of the blacks you are around at school?  I suggest it is the immorality you are reacting to rather than the color of their skin.  Unfortunately, the culture of the inner-city blacks promotes these sinful attributes.  If you will examine your feelings toward white students that behave immorally you will see clearly what your mind is rejecting.  It is good for you to examine your position.  What a shame it would be for you to confuse color with immorality and unconsciously reject an entire race.  Consider the following passages while reflecting on the sinfulness of our society:

“. . . thou hatest all workers of iniquity” (Ps. 5:5).

“The fear of the Lord is to hate evil: pride, and arrogancy, and the evil way and the froward mouth” (Prov. 8:13).

“Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thine enemy.  But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you” (Mt. 5:43 ff.).

“Through thy precepts I get understanding: therefore I hate every false way” (Ps. 119:104).

“Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows” (Heb. 1:9).

Questions on morality are expected from students going through puberty with hormones raging.  In moral lessons the understanding must be addressed before the conscience, and the conscience before the heart, if we would make the deepest impressions.  Do not assume the parents of your students will back you on moral issues.  There are always those parents who will let their child go to the prom, mixed swim, date at too early an age, dress improperly, or even allow them to smoke or drink alcohol.  As a Bible teacher you can have an influence on the child to the extent that they may on their own consider God’s Word in these matters.

Infinite toil would not enable you to sweep away a mist; but by ascending a little you may often look over it altogether.  So it is with our moral improvement; we wrestle fiercely with a vicious habit, which would have no hold upon us if we ascended into a higher moral atmosphere.
Is it wrong to dance?

“Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness” (Gal. 5:19).

Webster’s Collegiate Dictionary says lasciviousness is “that which is tending to produce lewd emotions” The New World Dictionary says it is “Characterized by or expressing lust or lewdness; Tending to excite lustful desires” The Greek word (aselgeia) for lasciviousness is defined in Thayer’s Greek-English Lexicon as “Unbridled lust, excess, licentiousness, lasciviousness, insolence; wanton acts or manners, as filthy words, indecent bodily movements, unchaste handling of males and females.”

Dancing Is Revelry

“Envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like . . . they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God” (Gal. 5:21).

Christians Are To Be Different From Others

“Be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind” (Rom. 12:2).

“Abstain from all appearance of evil” (1 Thess. 5:22).

There Are Dangers Associated With Dancing

Anyone who looks at a woman lustfully has committed adultery with her already in his heart (Mt. 5:28).

“. . . abstain from the passions of the flesh that wage war against your soul” (1 Pet. 2:11).

“Dancing is an excuse for a man to hold another man’s wife in his arms”
--Marshall Keeble

A young lady would look pretty stupid on the dance floor clanking around trying to dance wearing that heavy Christian armor!
--Sheila McDade
The following morality question was asked in an all girls class of young teens:

Questions And Answers Continued

What is wrong with going mixed swimming (male & female) if you wear a modest swim suit?

“In like manner, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with a shamefacedness and sobriety” (1 Tim. 2:9).

“. . . That whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart” (Mt. 5:28).

“It is good not . . . to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth” (Rom. 14:21).

Let’s discuss the topic “What is Modesty?” in class. (The dictionary says it is “Restrained by a sense of propriety or humility. Characterized by reserve, propriety, or purity”).

Teacher’s notes for class discussion of this Question:

What Is Modesty?

I. To discuss the subject of modesty bring pictures from clothing catalogues.
   A. First show several pictures of young women in modest clothing.
      1. Have the class discuss whether or not a person could be popular at school wearing these fashions.
      2. The class should agree that a person could be readily accepted in any group dressed as in the modest pictures.
   B. Show another set of pictures of young ladies dressed in immodest clothing.
      1. Do not have any of these pictures of bathing suits, only have them in short skirts, slit skirts, tight pants, low cut tops and transparent material.
      2. The reaction from the class should be things like, my mother would never let me wear that, they would never let anyone wear that to school, I would never wear that anywhere etc.
   C. Now bring out pictures of very modest bathing suits.

1. Get them from a catalogue for large women. Now these suits will be the most conservative ones on the market. They have blouse-on tops and skirts around the hips, but they still cover less than any of the fashion pictures that the class objected to.
2. Put the fashion pictures beside the swim suits and let the students compare.
3. How any bathing suit can be considered modest if it covers so little.
D. Then show pictures of average bathing suits that teens wear.
   1. This should at least put doubt in their minds about the practice of mixed swimming.
      a. And what is doubtful is sinful (Rom. 14:23).
      b. Whatever weakens a Christian’s influence is wrong also (Mt. 5:16).
E. Remind the class the requirements of the Gospel are not there for the purpose of making the Christian life difficult.
   1. The Lord does not require the Christian to sacrifice a single thing that is good for him.
   2. It is not wrong to swim. It is wrong to be immodest.
      a. Swim in private situations. Swim on the beach at night or on a private beach if you go on vacation to Florida. The point is there are alternatives.
      b. Just because you have always done something, or your parents do something, or everyone you know does something does not make it right.
      c. Some people don’t know the difference between right and wrong because they haven’t studied God’s Word.

“But strong meat belongeth to them that are of full age, even those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil” (Heb. 5:14).

This last question on morality was a very mature question of a class of young ladies. But, at the time it was asked the subject was on television a lot due to a court case in Tennessee. I was surprised that the students knew as much as they did about it and yet, they thought there was no immorality involved.
Would it be wrong for a woman to be artificially inseminated with the seed of a man other than her husband?

If a woman is artificially inseminated with the seed of a man other than her husband then:

(In answering these questions remember God is not the author of confusion)

1. Who is the father?
2. Who does God regard as the father?
3. Is it in violation of one man for one woman for life?
4. Has not a third party entered into this relationship/union?
5. Aren’t two (the woman and sperm donor) becoming one flesh when her egg and his sperm become one child?
6. Where is the Biblical authority for the right to conceive another man’s child?
7. Is God pleased with modern medicine offering women an opportunity to have a child by a man other than her husband by proxy*?

* Definition of proxy: to function as a substitute for another. Authority to act for another. Authorization to represent another.

It is wrong to conceive a child by someone you are not married to.
It is wrong to have a sexual act even if there is no conception.
It is wrong also to have conception even if there is no sexual act.

How can you be so sure of these statements? Because fornication is condemned in the Bible. Read: Acts 15:20, 29; 21:25; 2 Cor. 12:21; Gal. 5:19; Eph. 5:3; Col. 3:5 and 1 Thess. 4:3. The Greek word Porneia is translated fornication in all these passages. The definition of Porneia is sexual immorality. This covers pornography (notice the similarity in the two words), and even homosexuality. Porneia is any kind of sexual immorality. Now, can you, without a doubt, say artificial insemination is not a sexual sin?

Is sperm a sexual product?
Is a woman’s egg a sexual product?
Is fertilization a sexual function?
Conception Receives Respect And Reverence In God’s Word

Read about Abraham, Sarah, Hagar, Ishmael and Isaac in the book of Genesis. Genesis 16:4 says “her mistress was despised in her eyes” regarding Hagar. Sarah says “My wrong be upon thee” to Abraham.

“Children are an heritage of the Lord” (Ps. 127:3).

“The Lord gave her conception” (Ruth 4:13).

“. . . did not one fashion us in the womb?” (Job 31:15).

“. . . the souls which I have made” (Isa. 57:16)

“God remembered Rachel and opened her womb” (Gen. 30:22).

“. . . when I was made in secret and curiously wrought . . .” (Ps. 139:13-16).

“. . . as infants which never saw light” (Job 3:16).

“Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh” (Gen. 2:24).

Murder Is Sin

“Thou shalt not kill” (Ex. 20:13).

It is important to know the process used to artificially inseminate. It is necessary for the doctor to use in vitro-fertilization. In vitro literally means “in glass.” This is a process where the fertilization actually takes place outside the body in a glass. Many eggs are harvested from the woman and fertilized. Only one or two fertilized eggs are placed in the woman. The rest of the fertilized eggs are thrown away. Consider the moral implication of this. Is it murder? If it is not murder what is it? When does life begin?
These next few questions are grouped together in a category called Subjectivism. Subjectivism is the belief that each person intuitively knows what is right, or is led by a divine force within himself to think and act in accordance with the will of God. It is often spoken of as “heart religion” by its adherents, as opposed to the “head religion” of those who believe that knowledge of and obedience to God’s Word are the proper criteria of righteousness. The implication of this doctrine is that each man is “a law unto himself.”

Notice each question begins with “How do I answer my friends . . .” They are all questions from an evangelism class. Subjectivism is a characteristic of denominationalism and must be understood to be an effective teacher.

How do I answer my friends when they say it doesn’t matter what you believe as long as your heart is right with God?

“But without faith it is impossible to please him . . .” (Heb. 11:6).

“So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God” (Rom. 10:17).

It is impossible to have your heart right with God without faith. Your faith (or what you believe) must come from the Bible. When two different people believe two different things at least one must be wrong. To be pleasing to God you must believe what He has taught in His Word. If you believe what men teach (or what you feel is right) rather than what is written in God’s Word you can’t have your heart right with God. Notice what Jeremiah says about man’s ability to guide himself in Jeremiah 10:23. According to Isaiah (Isaiah 55:8) man is unable to know God’s ways without God’s revelation. And, what does Paul say it takes to be “wise unto salvation” in 2 Timothy 3:15?

How do I answer my friends when they say God saves people not churches . . . it is not necessary to attend church”

Hebrews 10:22-31 rather strongly states forsaking the assembly is sin. Worship is important to God. “. . . if any man be a worshiper of God, and doeth his will, him he heareth” (Jn. 9:31). Also, the church is very important to God. He puts his saved into the church and Christ died for the church (Eph. 5:25).
How do I answer my friends when they say it doesn’t matter what church (denomination) you go to... one church is as good as another... there are good people in all churches?

It is hard to imagine how people who reject plain Bible doctrine can be so sincere about service to God. There is no doubt there are moral and loving people in denominations that would be generous friends with you. There is no denying our denominational friends are often devoted to doing good deeds. But, there is a difference in sincerity and Truth. In 1 Kings 18:28 the prophets of Baal were so sincere they cut themselves to call upon their false god. Yes, our denominational friends may be sincere but there is no doubt that they are following what seems right to them instead of what can be proven with the Word. They need to be warned that the end of that way is death. “There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death” (Prov. 14:12). “O Lord, I know that the way of man is not in himself: it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps” (Jer. 10:23). We must follow God’s plan for worship, church organization, entrance into the kingdom... and if we change one thing to conform to our opinion it will not matter how many good works and sweet devotion we offer Him, we will be rejected.

Questions about the miraculous:

My friend says God let her grandfather be injured in a car wreck because he had stopped preaching. He was a Baptist preacher. Doctors said he would never walk again. But God told him he WOULD walk again if he would go back to preaching. He went back to preaching as soon as the doctors would let him and when he did, God did a miracle and he could walk again! My questions are:

- Does God cause accidents to happen to people? No. God does not miraculously nor providentially perform evil (Hab. 1:13). He allows evil in this world because of the fall of man. He persuades people to obey Him with His Word not catastrophes.

PERSUASION

Do you really think that after it has been tried to teach a man the Truth, say over quite some time, that if the man rejects it, refuses to be redeemed, God would strike him with a palsy, starve him until he pleads, frighten him with horror, or bring upon him grief?

Do you really think that God would thus persuade a man, use this type of motivation to force him to make amends? If you really do think this, then you’d better think again, and, I’d hate for you to pray for me if it were I who would not repent!
Does he talk to people? No. God no longer talks to people in their dreams or in visions. His will has been once and for all delivered and we have it in the written Word, the Bible. It is all sufficient for our lives (II Timothy 3:16-17).

Does he do miracles like this today? No. Miracles ceased with the passing of the Apostles for after the death of Christ only they could bestow the power of miraculous gifts with the laying on of their hands. The Apostles could give someone the power to perform miracles but that person could not pass his gift on to someone else. The purpose of miracles was to confirm the Word. Once the Word was confirmed, the Gospel had been preached unto all the world, the Word was recorded in written form, and time had passed (resulting in the death of the Apostles and those on whom the Apostles had given the power to do miracles) miracles ceased. Study these texts:

Acts 8:17 ff. Laid hands
1 Cor. 13:8-13 “which is in part shall be done away”
1 Pet. 2:1 false teachers instead of false prophets because miracles had ceased
Micah 7:15 “according to the days . . . .”
Eph. 4:8-13 “till we come to the unity . . . .”

NO PRAYERS FOR MIRACLES

I do not pray for the miraculous.
(Though that would be fabulous for one to fly in on an angel’s wing).

But I know too much about the Word to be so absurd
as to ask something that would insult my King.

People who say miracles have not ceased use WORDS to try to confirm their belief, verifying they can’t demonstrate a thing.

At the time miracles were being done
it was WORDS their performance confirmed!
So, Pentecostals have things reversed it would seem.

It is either deception, insanity, or delusion when people reach the conclusion that God communicates with them in their dreams.
A question about religious icons:

Is it wrong to wear a cross necklace? A crucifix, whether worn or displayed in architecture, is a man made religious emblem. Read Deut. 4:16 and Deut. 5:8 regarding the fashioning of any image. We should never regard the display of a crucifix lightly or try to dicker about whether or not it is worshiped or used to display religious piety. Imagine trying to teach a Catholic that it is wrong to bow before images when you have a gold crucifix around your neck. Do you not see the inconsistency? It and any other religious icon such as images of angels or “saints” should not be condoned.

THE CROSS

The shame
Of it was despised by Christ.
The gift
Of it, grace to our lives.

It was never intended,
Certainly not recommended,
Or even implied
To be iconically contrived.

Wood, stone, brass, brick
Embosed, reflects
Concave, convex
Building facade
Pulpit veneer
“Just ignore”
“It was already here”
“That’s the way they come”
“We don’t want one”

PROFANE PRAYERS

Do not pray before icons
Or signs of the cross.
Do not bow before images
Of the carpenters son
It is profane to have Rubies represent His blood,
His spittle enamel,
And tears out of pearl.
Remember His death
Not with cold graven stone
But by honoring his request
With bread and fruit of the vine.

Catholicism
Protestant’s symbol
Condone, explain
Impious, profane Inconsistent
Rid it’s existence!

The place of it is here in our hearts.
It was never to be fashioned
By man’s graven art.
Let me say here how admirable it is for anyone, especially young people, to stand up for the truth and defend it. It is easier to find a score of men wise enough to discover the truth than to find only one intrepid enough in the face of opposition, to stand up for it. There is nothing so delightful as hearing or speaking the truth. There is no conversation so agreeable as that of the man of integrity, who hears without any intention to betray, and speaks without any intention to deceive. Truth is by its very nature intolerant, exclusive, for every truth is the denial of its opposing error. Often the church of Christ is criticized for her strong stand for truth. Some modern critics appear to have no better knowledge of truth, nor better manner of judging it, than by counting noses. We must remember “narrow is the way” to salvation and “few there be that find it.” Don’t expect large numbers to side with you when you speak the truth in love. Even though truth and love are two of the most powerful things in the world they can and will be resisted and rejected. Remember Christ was rejected of all men. But be encouraged: “Truth though crushed to earth will rise again; the eternal years of God are hers; but error wounded writhes in pain, and dies amid her worshipers” --Bryant.

PRAY FOR THEIR EYES TO BE OPENED

There are those who don’t search
For heavenly things.
The beams of Truth
Are too strong for them.
They shield their eyes.
They’d rather die
Than weary themselves
Debating what’s right.
They simply refuse
To seek the Truth.
Anathema to them
Is to have a dispute.
What do they think
About a spiritual life?
That there should be
A huge triumph
Without fighting a fight?
Just knowing
Easily, immediately, entirely,
Like reading without spelling
Never working then retiring?
What do they intend?
Just to take their ease
Until their bodies
Give up their lease?

MAY WE FIND A PREACHER

One whose faith never faints
When blamed by the saints
For the hard heart of a hearer.

One who is fearlessly frank
And specifically calls names
Of those who hold human creeds dearer.

One whose heart never sank
Over lack of monetary gain
And can always look at his face in the mirror.
THE HERETIC

How dare he gain affection without their detection. It wasn’t just the lucre he sought but their breath. He rides the flattering gale and flaps his own sail as they applaud all that he says.

He took in his anchor with arrogant rancor and left in darkness the safe harbor of truth. He is sailing without a compass, but it doesn’t matter he’s so pompous. Besides, he’s forgotten its use.

He never takes a sound, but he will not run aground, for he has navigated out over his head. It is hard to fathom the ease with which he pirated his fleet. Sad hearts have sunk heavy as lead.

There are those who at first wouldn’t believe what they heard—that he would lead so many so deep. Lockjawed, seasick, lumps in their throats, finally, they spewed out their nose assent, with nauseating grief.

The light house still shines as we sail through the brine. Vigilant on an ocean salty with tears. Thank you dear God for those who still watch and hail warnings without any fear.

PRAY FOR THE PREACHER

May our preacher be a man of conviction Who straightforwardly makes his presentation Whether with a tender loving invitation Or with righteous indignation Without apology or prevarication Makes his point with clear explanation
One Year Chronological Outline
Introduction
For

One Year Chronological Outline

This one year outline consists of 104 lessons. There are 26 lessons for each quarter, 13 for Sunday and 13 for Wednesday. To teach this material in one year it is necessary to follow this outline in both the Sunday and Wednesday classes. If the outline is taught only once a week (either Sunday or Wednesday) it will, obviously, take two years to complete. This is not recommended. The idea is to give an overall view of the Bible, so the more compact you can keep the material the clearer the objective will be. All that is provided in the outline is the title and text for each lesson. Yet the value of the outline is seen in the work gone into compressing the entire Bible into 104 lessons. Major characters and Biblical accounts have been arranged in chronological order. Developing the lessons is left up to the teacher’s personal study and preparation.

It may be necessary when considering the age of your students or their level of Bible knowledge to alter the year outline for them. They may need more emphasis on a certain section of material that has been neglected in their religious education. For example it is often necessary to “unteach” evolution to students that have been influenced by a secular school’s science classes. You will see the advantage of first testing your students Bible knowledge and then adapting the year outline for your study. But, even after you have painstakingly planned your outline if you discover while teaching it the need to emphasize a lesson by expanding it over two or three weeks you can adjust the outline by combining other lessons to compensate. No matter how you alter your outline though, even if it takes longer than one year to teach it all, it is very important that attention be given to the three Dispensations when unfolding the lessons. The three Dispensations are the Patriarchal, the Mosaical and the Christian. I suggest you view the Jule Miller Film Strips before you teach your outline, especially if you have never seen them. The film strips will help you see the three Dispensations.

Developing Lessons

Developing Lessons

There are many messages that can be drawn from a single scripture. Decide what points you want your class to remember from the lesson and direct their attention there. In the following examples of developed lessons you will note many modes of communication and illustration are used. Visual communication is important therefore pictures, videos and films are utilized. Thought provoking communication is suggested with discussions, sharing experience, open ended stories and introducing new topics which relate to the lesson. The senses are addressed at the Learning Center Table and with hands-on discovery assignments. Hopefully the following suggestions will stimulate your imagination, and developing your lessons will be an experience in creativity.

Suggestions For Visuals

Filmstrips – Most congregations have old filmstrips available in their teacher supply room. Usually they will have at least a set of the Jule Miller Visualized Bible Studies (Gospel Services Inc., Houston, TX). The Visualized Bible Studies films are divided into The Patriarchal, The Mosaical, and The Christian ages or dispensations. They have beautiful pictures depicting most of the lessons in the Gold Mine For Teachers year outline. The film strips are much more dramatic than the video version because they can be shown on a wall and made larger than life. It is not necessary to use the audio tape in this type of classroom situation. It is preferable to just single out which frames fit the lesson and use them. The children will love getting out of their chair and pointing to a character or item in answer to one of your questions. A discipline tip is to warn the class that the child that plays around with hands or heads making shadows to disrupt will be sent into the hall until the film is over.

There are many filmstrips you might have access to: Parables From Nature (Cathedral Films, Westlake Village, CA), The Tammy Series (Gospel Services Inc. Houston, TX), How We Got The Bible (by Neil Lightfoot), The Day Christ Came Again (Gospel Services Inc., Houston, TX) and on and on the list goes.

Videos - Most large video rental stores have a religious section. Usually they have errors, so be very careful in selecting one. You may only be able to use part of it, but just set your counter and show the part that is in your lesson. There are videos on Jesus, David, Joseph, Moses and an excellent one named The Bible . . . In The Beginning (20th Century Fox, Dino Delaurentiis) that covers the creation to Abraham. The section on Noah is especially good. The best one on Jesus is Jesus (Inspirational Media, San Bernadino, CA). Remember to always preview your video, and never let the class see error depicted. Other video ideas are in the Documentary Section of your favorite video store. A video of whales while teaching Jonah or lions when studying Daniel would be attention getting. Also in the Documentary Section there are travel videos of Palestine, Egypt and other applicable ideas.

Slides - For teachers who have a slide projector there are excellent slides available. Many older congregations have valuable sets that are no longer made. Always familiarize yourself with what is available in your congregation’s supply room. Just because something looks old doesn’t mean it is obsolete. Also, slides from missionaries are wonderful when teaching on evangelism.

View Master - Especially small children love this. There once was an entire set of wheels on the life of Christ available and your supply room may have it hidden on a back shelf.

National Geographic Magazine - This magazine is a wonderful source for pictures to illustrate everything from animals God created to man made idols. Be smart and shop for used ones at a thrift store where they are usually about 25 cents.

School and Bible supply stores and local libraries - Libraries are wonderful because it is free. Buying your own material can get expensive. Bible Color Books (Heros Of The Old Testament, 3 volumes and Heros Of The New Testament, Bethany Fellowship, Inc.) are excellent choices with which to start. Color the pictures yourself and mount them on construction paper to create story cards or flip charts. Never waste expensive color books by letting students scribble them. Flannel Graph pictures (almost unlimited choices), Bible picture books (The Bible For Little Eyes by Kenneth N. Taylor and the Arch Books Series, Concordia Publishing), application story books (3 in 1 by Joanne Marx hausen and The Giving Tree by Shel Silverstein), teaching picture sets (Moods And Emotions, Marvel Education), Bible geographical books (Ancient Egypt, Time Life Books), and an endless number of craft idea books will help any teacher wanting to enlarge her visual capability.

Used Lesson Books - This is great for getting ideas, and most congregations have stacks of them in their supply room.

Field trips - Investigate your city for ideas that would enhance the learning of your students. For example, while teaching the story of creation a field trip to the local zoo would be excellent. Have the students identify which animals are “clean” and which are “unclean.” Also for the lesson on creation take your class on a field trip to a park where the trees are labeled. Similar to a high school biology class the children can collect leaves from each tree and record the names of each to impress them with the variety God created when creating the world. Examples of field trips I have had opportunity to let my classes experience are: the local university when an Egyptian exhibit was there and included an actual mummy (we were studying Joseph), a cave (we were studying Saul and David), an art exhibition of the life of Christ in a beautiful memorial. park at a cemetery (we were studying lessons on heaven). Field trips are excellent for the students to have opportunities develop friendships and bring visitors.

Original Ideas - Original ideas can be gleaned from teacher work shops. In fact, work shops always emphasize the visual aspect of teaching. This is the very reason A Gold Mine For Teachers is so valuable with its stress on all the other considerations. Some teachers make the mistake of centering their focus on clever visuals and neglect organization, goals, chronology, vocabulary, memorization, techniques of discipline, and wise use of time. Visual aids should live up to their name and simply aid the teacher in making her point. A creative teacher will use visuals to her advantage. A well placed visual can define a word, carry the student back in time, demonstrate a concept that is difficult to explain in a child’s vocabulary and even induce emotion. Some examples of original ideas:

How We Got The Bible - Papyrus paper (I got mine at a booth at the county fair. Always keep an eye out for such unique objects.) Clay tablet made from art clay and a “stone tablet” made from plaster of paris with tempra paint added to look like stone.

Adam And Eve - Clay for molding into the shape of a person

Cain And Abel - A medal or trophy. Be proud of your brother if he does something good. Don’t be jealous like Cain when he killed Abel.

Tower Of Babel / Speaking in tongues on Pentecost - Books written in other languages and/or recordings teaching languages from local library.

Trial Of Abraham’s Faith - Large knife.

Abraham’s Travels - Many children have never been in a tent. Put up a tent for them.

Joseph - Coat of many colors stained with “blood,” prison chains, rent a travel video of Egypt, grain (gather wheat from nearby field), flour.

Moses And The Taskmaster - Whip

Moses Before Pharaoh - Staff, fake snake

Tabernacle - Burn incense, 7 candles

Barak And Jael - A huge 12 inch nail from the hardware store

David And Goliath - Transparency of a picture of Goliath shown on a wall with projector pulled back to make Goliath 9 feet 6 inches tall

Elijah - Clay pots
Jonah And The Whale - Get a large cardboard box (longer than it is tall) open on one end. Glue paper to the side of it and draw a fish the size of the box on the paper. Have the mouth of the fish wide open at the end of the box that is open. The children can crawl into the whale’s mouth and pretend to be Jonah.

Birth Of Christ - Frankincense and myrrh (purchase through Christian book store order book / this scent is in the “anointing oil” in their order book.)

Temptation Of Christ and Job - Halloween costume of Satan

Turning Water To Wine - Have two clear water glasses. One has water in it and the other appears to be empty, yet it has several drops of red food coloring in the bottom. Hide the bottom of the food coloring glass with your hand as you hold it. Pour the clear water into the seemingly empty glass and the water turns red. Always explain the trick after the thrilled surprise of the class.

Life Of Christ - Worn sandals

Whole Armor Of God - Costume armor

One visual can bring out an aspect of the lesson so vividly. If you have a special talent like drawing, or paper folding or photography you can easily apply it to your class.
Most teachers utilize flip charts and share new ideas concerning them. I have some favorites that I will share with you here.

I once had a book about two little boys, Freddy and Denny. Freddy was good in worship and Denny was bad. I have long since lost the book but I made my own flip chart teaching this great lesson. I “drew” the pictures myself. I found a color book that had little boys and I traced their outlines which helped me a lot. For the adult figures I used a cartoon book and traced from it.

I always make a point of teaching at least once every year the reality of a place called heaven and a place called hell. The charts and flip charts I use on this subject get more discussion than any lesson I have ever taught. We cover points like what happens to you when you die, where is heaven/hell, a description of both places and most importantly who gets to go to heaven. When teaching this lesson be assured that the thing on the child’s mind is: would I go to heaven or hell if I died. I always begin the lesson by letting them know all children are precious to God and should they die young they will be carried by angels to Abraham’s bosom where they are comforted until judgment and all their righteous loved ones join them as they enter the heavenly gates. I describe heaven’s beauty and glory thus relieving them of any anxiety about death. It is important the children are taught about death. I take every class I teach to a beautiful cemetery. There is one near us that has a Grotto. It is a man made cave in which artists have fashioned scenes of the life of Christ. We talk about caves and how Jesus was buried in a tomb. Usually there are graves that have just had a funeral several hours before. I allow the children to go there and take a flower from all those heaped over the site. We talk about how old people were when they died as we look at the gravestones and we find some that were babies or small children when they died. It sounds morbid but most parents do not take children to funerals and this is a good introduction to them for the inevitable time they will have to face grief. Unfortunately, serious times of grief have been known to steal away the faith of individuals. I believe this lesson will prepare children and I have seen it bring faith into little hearts as they see that heaven is a real place and God is real.

I made the flip chart I use. You may find the pictures I describe in books or magazines or actually take a picture with your camera and enlarge it on a copy machine. I will try to explain each page of it here:

Heaven and Hell Flip Chart

1 Picture of a child crying. There are no tears in heaven.

2 Picture of a happy family eating Thanksgiving dinner. (I used the famous Norman Rockwell picture of this scene.) Discuss that just as your family gets together at holidays and reunions we will be reunited with righteous family members in heaven. Grandmothers and Grandfathers may already be there waiting for us.

3 Picture of a woman when she was young and a picture of her as an old woman. In heaven you never grow old.

4 Picture of a child at the doctor. (I use the Norman Rockwell picture of this scene. It is humorous with the little boy bravely getting a shot.) There is no sickness, no pain, no death.

5 Picture of a child sleeping. There is no night there. God is the light.

6 Picture of war, soldiers. (I got my picture from Nation Geographic.) No evil in heaven.

7 Picture of food and clothing. In heaven God takes care of us and we are spirits.

8 Picture of a tree and a river. The Bible says we will eat of the Tree Of Life and drink of the River Of Life. We will live forever.

9 Picture of a king on a throne. (I got one from National Geographic . . . the king of Spain on a gold bejeweled throne.) God is there. We get to see him face to face and worship him.

10 Picture of gold, jewels, gems, and pearls. Heaven has seven gates of pearl and the walls are made of beautiful jewels and gems. The streets are of gold!

11 Picture of a shining city. I drew this picture and put glitter on it. Jesus is preparing a mansion for us. THE END

Chalk Board Lessons

I will just continue the theme of Heaven and Hell here and share with you a great Chalk Board Lesson. It doesn’t take any artistic talent. You will just draw four circles and some arrows.

The Rich Man And Lazarus

Luke 16

On the chalk board Draw a circle to represent the earth.

When a soul dies it goes to the Hadean Realm.

Draw another circle to represent the Hadean Realm. Draw an arrow from earth to the Hadean Realm. Tell about Jesus being there for three days.

Draw a wide horizontal line representing the Great Gulf dividing the Hadean Realm in half. Explain where Paradise is and where Hades is. Point out the wide line of division as The Great Gulf which can’t be crossed. Read and explain the account of The Rich Man And Lazarus.

Points to make:

- In Paradise souls are comforted in Abrahams bosom.
- The souls in Hades are tormented.
- Souls in Hades can see across The Great Gulf but can’t cross it.
- The Rich Man recognizes Lazarus. You will recognize people after death.
- The Rich Man is thirsty. No one will help you there . . . all hope is gone.
- The Rich Man remembers his former life and circumstances. He wants to send Lazarus back to warn his family. No second chances to teach or warn or obey.

Draw another circle high above the other circles to represent Heaven.

Job 3:17 Place of rest
Isa. 60:19; Rev. 21:23 God is it’s light
1 Cor. 2:9 it’s beauty
Rev. 21:11ff. seven gates, street of gold
Jn. 14:2 Mansions
Heb. 11:10 it’s builder is God
2 Pet. 3:8 one day is as thousand years
Mt. 7:13 strait gate
Mt. 7:21 not...saith Lord, Lord shall

Draw another circle way below all the circles to represent Hell.

Job 11:8 deep pit
Mt. 8:12 dark, weeping, gnashing
Mt. 16:18 gates of Hell
Mt. 25:30 gnashing of teeth
Mt. 25:41 eternal, fire, those on the left
2 Thess. 1:9 separated from God
2 Pet. 2:4 chains, darkness
Rev. 14:11 smoke, no rest, worship the beast
Rev. 20:15 lake of fire
Rev. 21:8 brimstone

Mt. 24:36 Of that day knoweth no man
1 Thess. 5:2 as a thief in the night
Jude 14 Jesus coming with ten thous. saints
Mt. 14:62 Coming with clouds
1 Thess. 4:15ff. shout, voice of archangel,
Mt. 25:32 Divide sheep from goats
2 Pet. 3:1ff. heavens will pass away
2 Cor. 5:10 judgment seat of Christ

Describe Judgment Day:

Draw arrows from Paradise to earth representing all souls returning to their bodies on Judgment Day.

Outline Lessons

Those of us who are older remember the old “Rag Sermons” that many old time preachers were known to preach. They took a sheet and painted an outline of their lesson on it for the church to follow along with each point. Some preachers still use this effective tool though most have progressed to using overhead projectors and even Power Point projectors rather than the sheet. Sticking to the theme of Heaven and Hell here are examples for you.

Power Point Lessons

POWER POINT PRESENTATIONS are being utilized more and more from the pulpit and in class situations. Texts, outlines, maps, and even pictures can be part of your presentation. It is worth the effort to become familiar with this software.

Availability Of Chart Lessons

Charts are available in Bible reference books and even in the back of study Bibles themselves. Here is an excellent chart to use with the outline provided in this book. It shows clearly an overall chronology of the Bible.

Chronology Chart For Children

Use butcher paper cut in half length wise. The chart that I made is 21 feet long (three 7 foot long strips of paper). Put pictures of Bible lessons you want to emphasize and very little writing. I traced my pictures from Bible color books. The pictures I drew along my time line are:

Adam & Eve
Abel offering a sacrifice
Noah’s ark (I wrote his name here too)
Tower of Babel
Abraham offering Isaac (I wrote his name here)
Jacob’s ladder to heaven (I wrote his name here)
Joseph’s coat of many colors
I wrote here 430 years Egyptian Captivity
Pharaoh
Mount Sinai with clouds at the top
The Tabernacle
Joshua holding a sword (I wrote his name here)
Samson holding a jawbone (I wrote Judges here)
Ruth holding bundle of wheat (I wrote her name)
A king with a crown
Write here:
Saul, David, Solomon 120 years of united kingdom

Time line divides here:

Israel / Northern Kingdom

Judah / Southern Kingdom

Draw lines showing the taking away into:
Assyrian and Babylonian captivity
Daniel in lions den
Temple being rebuilt
Jesus in the manger
Jesus on donkey entering Jerusalem
Jesus on the cross
Jesus ascending in the clouds
EXAMPLES OF DEVELOPED LESSONS:

The first lesson you teach is always important. You need to make a good “first impression” no matter if you have 1 year olds or 80 year olds. Begin with introductions. Don’t rush into the lesson. Take some time to convince the students that you are interested in the subject you are about to teach. Tell them why you wanted that subject or age group.

Convince the students you are: interested in them interested in the subject you will be studying excited about the lessons delighted to be their teacher

Introductory Lessons

The Gold Mine for Teachers outline begins with what I call introductory lessons. I would like to illustrate them for you because they are rather unique.

EXAMPLE LESSON PLAN #1

The Bible Is . . .

Place on the table a book shelf of the books of the Bible, a clay tablet, a scroll, and a large family Bible.

INTRODUCTIONS:

EXAMPLE LESSON PLAN #2

How We Got The Bible
Text - 1 Peter 1:25

This lesson also is excellent for a substitute lesson. It also is a great lesson to introduce the Gold Mine For Teachers Chronological Outline. It relies strongly on the How We Got The Bible film strips which makes it a rather unique lesson. If you have access to the films you will see that it is an exciting, attention getting lesson that will be different from any you have taught. It will impress students with the effort their teacher has gone to and it most likely will introduce a subject most of them have never studied.

CLASSROOM:

Place on the Learning Center Table a book shelf of the books of the Bible, a clay tablet, a scroll, and a large family Bible.

REVIEW:

Show The Best Book film from the Tammy Series films (Gospel Services, Inc., Houston, TX) if the students are preschool. Discuss briefly main points from Lesson 1 using map, candle, letter and jewelry chest visuals.

OUTLINE:

I. How did we get God’s Word the Bible?
   A. Visual aid: How We Got The Bible films (by Neil Lightfoot)
   B. Do not play the record/cassette. Show the frames and paraphrase the narration manual on the comprehension level of the class.
   C. Example text for paraphrasing: (Notice many frames are omitted. Flip past the frames not numbered. There are only 18 frames to be used for this lesson.)
      1. Frames 1, 2 and 3 read manual.
      2. Show frame 8 then skip to frame 13 and paraphrase “The Bible was written on stone, clay, leather and papyrus”.
      3. Frame 14 “Writings on stone have been found all over the world. The earliest known examples of writing have been found on stone. Everyone knows the Ten Commandments were written on stone!”

How To Emphasize A Lesson
By Expanding It Over Several Weeks

The year outline devotes Lessons 3 through 6 to just three chapters in the Bible. This was done intentionally to emphasize the story of Creation. Anyone who has ever taught a children’s Bible class has taught the creation story, but never underestimate the importance of this lesson. Secular schools try to rob our children’s faith by the denial of this Biblical account of the beginning of time. Our children are taught almost from preschool that the earth was made over millions of years. It is our task as Bible teachers to teach them it was made in seven days.

When teaching these lessons do not neglect to warn your students that sometimes they may be lied to about how the earth was made. Warn them some people do not believe the Bible, and they have made up a story called Evolution.

Here are the developed lessons on the first three chapters of the Bible:

EXAMPLE LESSON PLAN #3

In The Beginning - Day 1, 2
Text - Genesis 1

This lesson can be as complicated or as simple as you allow it to be. If you are adapting the Chronological Outline to adults or teenagers you may want to introduce the “canopy theory” (The Genesis Flood by John C. Whitcomb and Henry M. Morris) at this point just as an introduction for the upcoming lesson on Noah. Any materials you can obtain by Burt Thompson will help you in development of your lessons.
CLASSROOM: One bulletin board can have the books of the Bible. The second board could have pictures of things God made: flowers, trees, sun, moon, food, animals, etc. Have shells, rocks, leaves, flowers, feathers, an insect collection, a turtle shell, and such natural objects on the learning table. Change the mobile over the table to one of the sun, moon and stars.

REVIEW: To review EXAMPLE LESSON PLANS #1 or #2 just discuss the importance of the Bible as the Word of God. Use the learning center table from those lessons and mobile in the discussion.

MEMORY WORK: Have each child try to recite the first five books of the Bible.

OUTLINE:
I. Use film #1 from Jule Miller’s Bible Study Series films. Do not use the record/cassette.

F. Take home: Cassette tape for each student with “Creation Song” on it for them to learn at home by playing and singing along with the tape. This song is excellent because it teaches that God made on each day of creation.

EXAMPLE LESSON PLAN #4

In The Beginning - Day 3, 4
Text - Genesis 1:10-13

This outline appeals to the senses and imagination of the children. They can smell the flavors of oranges, apples, and bananas, taste the seeds of sunflowers and pumpkins, see the beautiful varied shapes and colors of flowers and leaves, touch the rough shell of a peach seed, feel the weight of an avocado seed and imagine what would grow from tiny seeds they can barely see.

CLASSROOM: Same as for EXAMPLE LESSON PLAN #3 except add seeds to learning table. Avocado seeds are huge, peach seeds are recognizable, tiny seeds can bring on a fun guessing game as to what they are. Have seeds they can eat like pumpkin, sunflower, nuts, corn, and beans. Have fruit they can eat or fruit flavored candy so they can talk about the different smells and tastes. Have fresh flowers they can smell.

EXAMPLE LESSON PLAN #6

Man’s Fall Into Sin
Text - Genesis 3

Transgression, sin, evil, temptation, redemption, repentance and consequences are difficult concepts for children. Yet they are very important concepts. They are basic to understanding morality and God’s law. The teacher must find a way to communicate this lesson of the fall of man on the level of the student. Class discussion is an excellent way to tell if they really understand the concepts you emphasized.

CLASSROOM: The children should know the books of law by now. Add the books of history to the bulletin board. The board with pictures of creation needs to be changed to one about Man’s Fall. Use your own creativity. (A suggestion: a tree with a snake hanging down from one limb on one side of the board and the word Genesis in huge cut out letters beside it to let the children see the story of Adam and Eve is in Genesis. Seeing the word written will help them remember it). Learning Center ideas: a gold apple, a red apple, a snake puppet, a rabbit trap, hand cuffs, fig leaves, a lamb skin and a sword.

REVIEW: Flip through the frames of the Jule Miller films on the days of creation and progressing out of order ask “What day did God make this?”.

I. Teacher: Read Genesis 3 before class and be able to tell the story.
   A. Show this story from The Bible . . . In The Beginning video.

Review Questions For:

A Chronological Outline
Of The Bible
For Teaching The Three Dispensations
In One Year
In the days of the one room schoolhouse our grandparents received their educations under primitive conditions. Textbooks had to be shared, a blackboard was the only visual aid, writing supplies were limited and all ages were taught as one class. Yet, this was the generation that brought us into the world of technology that we live in today. All of us have heard stories of the amazing accomplishments individuals made despite the fact that their education consisted of or at least began with just a few years in such a learning environment. This leads us to believe the teachers in those one room schools must have been doing something right. The teaching method that was used primarily was memorization and oral recitations. Spelling words, math tables, historical accounts, science reports . . . were all learned in class and then recited for a grade. This approach to learning developed students who had excellent memories and confidence in what they had learned. This approach to learning in a Bible class will produce students with a solid foundation for a lifetime of serious Bible study.

This section of Review Questions is to be used as a guide for the teacher. If the children are too young to grasp all the facts in the Review Questions it still will be valuable to the teacher. It will help her thoroughly organize her thoughts in presenting the lesson. There are some verse by verse outlines included in these pages of Review Questions to help teachers organize detailed lessons. Copies of the Review Questions can be sent home with each student prior to the study of that particular lesson. If the student can’t read his parent should be encouraged to teach the facts to the child. In class the method of oral recitation can be combined with the “Class Participation Game” as described in Class Discipline the last paragraph. These Review Questions are organized to compliment the One Year Chronological Outline.

Thothmes I, 1541 - 1516 B.C. (Ruled 25 years)

This Pharaoh had a daughter whose name was Hatshepsut by his legal wife (the queen). The period of Moses’ birth fits perfectly into Egyptian history which makes Hatshepsut the “Pharaoh’s daughter” that adopted Moses against Egyptian law in Exodus 1:21-22. Moses was born in 1521 B.C., five years before Thothmes I died. If Hatshepsut was born one year after her father became Pharaoh (1540 B.C.), then she would have been 19 years old at the time.

Thothmes II, 1516 - 1503 B.C. (Ruled 13 years)

[Leaves Moses in the palace, see Acts 7:22. He was 6 - 18 years old]

At Thothmes I’s death there was no legal heir to the throne, since Egyptian law did not recognize the power of queens to rule, therefore, he appointed his son by a concubine as Pharaoh. In order to qualify him to the throne of Egypt, Thothmes II married Hatshepsut, his half sister. (Pharaohs, as gods with divine blood, married only within the family to keep the bloodline pure). Thothmes II died very young and soon after his marriage.

Hatshepsut, 1503 - 1481 B.C. (Ruled 22 years)

[Moses’ adopted mother ruled Egypt when Moses was 18 - 40 years old]

Thothmes II died without a legitimate heir to the throne from his marriage to Hatshepsut. Again, steps had to be taken to safeguard the survival of the dynasty, so, Thothmes III (a son of Thothmes II by a concubine) was proclaimed Pharaoh. Since he was only a child, Hatshepsut, his stepmother, was appointed go-regent. She soon assumed full regal power over Egypt. Since her country did not legally recognize a woman in the office of Pharaoh, although her bloodline was pure, she wore the clothes of a man and even her monuments reveal her as such. She ruled Egypt for 22 years.

Thothmes IV, 1423 - 1414 B.C. (9 years)

Thothmes IV was not the firstborn son of Amenhotep II as revealed by a monument in Egypt. The story is told how that Thothmes IV had a dream which indicated he would unexpectedly become a Pharaoh. (Cambridge Ancient History, Vol. II, p. 91). This story engraved on stone in Egyptian history shows that his son was not in line as legal heir of the throne, unless something happened to the firstborn son. - “Ye shall not go very far” (Ex. 8:28).
- Leave the little ones at home (Ex. 10:9-11).

2nd Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image
3rd Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord in vain
4th Remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy 5th Honor thy father and thy mother

8th Thou shalt not steal
9th Thou shalt not bear false witness
10th Thou shalt not covet

with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy might” (Deut. 6:5).

The people were not to depend on public preaching alone, but were to teach God’s commandments at home (Deut. 6:6-9). (See II Tim. 3:1-9; Deut. 21:18-21).

This was God’s law of capital punishment, though it was not always carried out. Sometimes other punishments were substituted. The key words of the Old Testament were “vengeance” and justice.” The key words of the New Testament are “mercy” and “forgiveness.” When the poor woman taken in adultery was brought before our Lord, he did not exact capital punishment, but said, “go thy way and sin no more.”

PRAYERS FOR STRENGTH

Just as Samson faced temptation
When the lion roared
And bravely stood his ground
Then left him ripped and torn.
And the next time that he saw it
A nest of honey was there within.
It can be the same with us
When we overcome or sin.
To be tempted and tried by fire
Is to turn bone to flint.
You are never so near victory
As when prayers for strength
Are heaven sent.

This small book is very effectively taught by stepping through it verse by verse in one class session. The following outline pinpoints verses that will move you through the story. For older classes select a talented reader to read each verse as you come to it in the telling of the story.

VERSE BY VERSE OUTLINE:

| 1:1 Famine in land | 2:15 Ruth gleaned sheaves |
| 1:2 Names of characters | 3:3 Naomi’s Plan |
| 1:4 Wives taken in Moab | 3:7 Laid at his feet |
| 1:5 Death of husbands | 3:9 Who are you? |
| 1:6-17 Leaving Moab / Love of Ruth | 3:13 Tarry |
| 1:22 Home in Bethlehem at harvest | 4:6 Other kinsman cannot redeem |
| 2:1 Boaz near kin | 4:7 Shoe as a testimony |
| 2:9 Protection of Boaz / water when thirsty | 4:13 Ruth bore a son |
| 2:11 Boaz had heard of Ruth | 4:15 Grandmother Naomi |
| 2:14 Meals with Boaz | 4:17 King David |
Naomi was faithful though she and her family must have suffered loss when the famine forced them from Canaan. She was faithful in the ten years she lived in a foreign land though her husband died and then her sons died after marrying foreign women. She was faithful though she had to face poverty when it became possible to return to Canaan. If anyone ever deserved a loving daughter-in-law like Ruth it was Naomi.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Is it a trial from God,
Or just the way that things are
As a result of the fall?

Does the fire that tests your soul
Melt your heart, make you strong
Or does it bake it into a stone?

It rains on the just and the unjust
Whether the rain is wanted or not.
You must pray if you want it to stop.

PRAYER FOR GRACE

Adversity holds things to be admired.
It can comfort and it can inspire.
It makes the idle industrious,
And though an antagonist it helps us.
Our highest countenance
Is oft our lowest estate.
Yet, the trials of affliction
Are not my benediction.
The cup is too bitter for my taste.
So I push it away
As I earnestly pray
To be blessed with His infinite Grace.

THE PRAYER OF JABEZ

Judah was prospering under David’s reign
As sorrowful Jabez called on the God of Israel’s name.
He prayed to be blessed,
For his coasts to be enlarged,
To be kept in the hand of the Almighty God.
He asked, “Protect me from evil
That I might not be grieved”
All he requested God made sure he received.

If you’re afraid your prayers
Ask too much of Him,
Turn in your Bible
To First Chronicles 4:10.
Read about Jabez
And how God blessed his life,
Then think about him
When you say your prayers tonight.

Review Questions For
1 Kings 16 through 2 Kings 7
Elijah And Elisha

1. How many years did Elijah and Elisha’s ministry last? 75 years (about B.C. 875-800) during the reigns of Ahab, Ahaziah, Jorim, Jehu, Jehoahaz and Joash

2. What were Elijah and Elisha sent to do? Save the Northern Kingdom

3. Did they save the Northern Kingdom? No. The Northern Kingdom (Israel) fell about B.C. 721 at the hands of the Assyrians. The Southern Kingdom (Judah) fell about B.C. 600 at the hands of the Babylonians.

4. Describe Elijah. The great prophet during the times of Ahab King of Israel. Elijah was a native of Gilead. He wore a cloak of sheepskin or camel hair with his own long hair hanging down his back. He and Enoch (Gen. 5:24) were the only two to never die.

   ELIJAH’S MIRACLES, WONDERS AND DEEDS OF MERCY
   - Three years of drought
   - Fed by ravens
   - Oil & meal (widow of Zarephath)
   - Healed widow of Zarephath’s son
   - Fire from heaven on the altar
   - Ran down from Mt. Carmel before Ahab
   - Fire from heaven on the 50

   - Ascension in whirlwind

5. Describe Elisha. A prophet, the disciple and successor of Elijah. He was the son of Shaphat, lived at Abel-meholah, at the northern end of the Jordan valley and a little South of the Sea of Galilee. Nothing is told of his parents but the father's name, though he must have been a man of some wealth and doubtless of earnest piety. No hint is given of Elisha's age or birth-place, and it is almost certain that he was born and reared at Abel-meholah, and was a comparatively young man when we first hear of him. His early life thus was spent on his father's estate, in a god-fearing family, conditions which have produced so many of God's prophets. His moral and religious nature was highly developed in such surroundings, and from his work on his father's farm he was called to his training as a prophet and successor of Elijah.

   - Elijah was a blunt man of the wilderness.
   - Elisha was gentle, gracious and diplomatic.
   - Elijah dressed as a man from the wilderness.
   - Elisha dressed like people from the city.

7. What two New Testament people have they been compared to? Elijah and Elisha in their personal lives and public work seemed to have been a prophetic picture of John the Baptist and Jesus. John is called Elijah (Mt. 11:14) and Jesus’ ministry of kindness was a fuller development of the type of work Elisha had started.

ELISHA’S MINISTRY BEGINS

HEALING OF A SPRING
II Kgs. 2:21 Elisha’s ministry begins with him healing a spring of water near Jericho.

DITCHES OF WATER LOOK LIKE BLOOD
II Kings 3
Jehoram the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria.
And he wrought evil in the sight of the LORD.
Mesha king of Moab rebelled against Jehoram and would not render to him (pay taxes of lambs and wool).
So the king of Israel, king of Judah, and the king of Edom went out to have war against Moab.
It was 7 days journey to the border for the battle.
There was not enough water and it looked like they might fail to conquer Moab.
Jehoshaphat asks if they can get help from a prophet of God.
A servant says yes, Elisha.
Elisha asks sarcastically why they don’t get the false prophets of Ahab and Jezebel to help them.
Then he finally agrees to help because Jehoshaphat king of Judah is there.
Elisha asks for a minstrel.
As the music played the Lord came upon him.
He instructed them to make the valley full of ditches.
He prophesied it would not rain but the ditches would be filled with water for them and their cattle to drink.
Also the Lord would deliver the Moabites into their hand.
IT CAME TO PASS:
The next morning the valley was filled with water.
The Moabites heard the kings were come up to fight and they put on armor.
When they saw the morning sun shining on the water it looked like blood.
The Moabites thought the 3 kings had killed each other.
But the Israelites rose up and smote the Moabites.
The king of Moab in desperation took 700 men with swords and tried to break through but could not.
Then he took his eldest son and offered him for a burnt offering upon the wall.
And there was great indignation against Israel and they departed from him, and returned to their own land.

BEARS KILL 42 CHILDREN
II Kgs. 2:23-24 Bethel was a seat of Baal worshipers. It is here that children mocked Elisha “go up thou bald head, go up thou bald head” and he cursed them in the name of the Lord. Two bears out of the wood killed 42 of them.
II Kgs. 2:25 From Bethel Elisha passed on to Mt. Carmel, the home of a school of the prophets, spent some time there and returned to Samaria the capital.

SON OF THE PROPHETS’ WIDOW
II Kgs. 4:1-7 His next deed of mercy was to relieve the pressing needs of a widow of one of the prophets.

SON OF THE PROPHETS’ WIDOW
II Kgs. 4:1-7 His next deed of mercy was to relieve the pressing needs of a widow of one of the prophets.

v. 1 Widow’s sons to be taken as bondmen.
v. 2 All she had was oil.
v. 3 Elisha told her to borrow vessels.
v. 4 Elisha tells her to fill the vessels from her one container.
v. 6 The oil kept pouring as long as they had vessels.
v. 7 She sold the oil to pay her debt and lived on the rest.

GREAT WOMAN OF SHUNEM (Great woman refers to her size)
II Kgs. 4:8-10 On his many journeys up and down the country, he frequently passed by the little village of Shunem, on the slopes of "Little Hermon." The modern name is Solam. It was about three miles from Jezreel. Accustomed to accept hospitality of one of the women of the place, he so impressed her with his sanctity that she appealed to her husband to build a chamber for the "holy man of God, that passeth by us continually."

II Kgs. 4:12-17 In return for this hospitality a son was born to the woman.

II Kgs. 4:18-37 Her son dies in early boyhood and is restored to life by the prophet.

v. 19 The boy said “My head, my head” and was carried to his mother.

v. 21 She laid him on the prophets bed and rode an ass to find the prophet.

v. 25-26 Elisha sent his servant, Gehazi, to meet her when he saw her coming.

v. 29 Elisha sent Gehazi to the child and had him lay his staff on the face of the child.

v. 32 When Elisha arrived the child was dead.

v. 33 Elisha prayed, lay on the child, put his mouth on his mouth, his eyes on his eyes, his hands on his hands.

v. 35 The child became warm, sneezed 7 times, and opened his eyes.

DEATH IN THE POT

II Kgs. 4:38-41 Elisha is next at Gilgal, residing with the sons of the prophets. It is a time of famine and they are subsisting on what they can find. One of them finds some wild gourds shreds them into the pot and they are cooked. The men have no sooner begun to eat than they taste the poison and cry to Elisha, "O man of God, there is death in the pot." Throwing in some meal, Elisha at once renders the dish harmless and wholesome.

MULTIPLIES THE BREAD

II Kgs. 4:42-44 Probably at about the same time and place and during the same famine, a man from Baal-shalishah brought provisions as a present to Elisha-twenty loaves of fresh barley bread and fresh ears of grain. Unselfishly Elisha commands that it be given to the people to eat. The servant declared it was altogether insufficient for a hundred men, but Elisha predicts that there will be enough and to spare. This miracle closely resembles the two miracles of Jesus.

NAAMAN THE LEPER IS HEALED

II Kgs. 5:1-19 Naaman was the captain of the host of the King of Syria and a leper. His wife had an Israelite maid.

II Kgs. 5:3 The maid claimed a prophet in Israel could cure Naaman’s leprosy.

II Kgs. 5:5 The King of Syria sent a letter for Naaman to the King of Israel asking for him to be healed

II Kgs. 5:7 The King of Israel rent his clothing when he got the letter

II Kgs. 5:8 When Elisha heard the King had rent his clothes he sent a message that he could cure Naaman

II Kgs. 5:9 Naaman rode a chariot up to Elisha’s house and Naaman sent a messenger to answer him

II Kgs. 5:10 Elisha’s message to Naaman was to wash in the Jordan 7 times.

II Kgs. 5:11 Naaman was insulted and started home.II Kgs. 5:13 Naaman’s servants: “If the prophet had bid thee do some great thing wouldest thou not have done it?”

II Kgs. 5:14 Naaman listened to his servants and dipped 7 times in Jordan. He was cleansed.

II Kgs. 5:16 Elisha would accept no gift of thanks from Naaman.

GEHAZI LIES AND ELISHA STRIKES HIM WITH LEPROSY

II Kgs. 5:22 Gehazi, without Elisha’s knowledge, ran after Naaman and asked for silver and 2 changes of garments.

II Kgs. 5:25 Gehazi lied to Elisha about accepting the gifts.

II Kgs. 5:27 Elisha struck Gehazi with leprosy for this deceitfulness
AX HEAD SWIMS

II Kgs. 6:1-7 A group of the sons of the prophets finding their quarters too small, determine to build new quarters near the Jordan. While felling the timber the ax-head of one, a borrowed tool, fell into the water and disappeared. It would have been useless to have attempted to search for it in that swift and muddy stream, so he cries in distress to the prophet. Elisha breaks off a stick, casts it in the spot where the ax fell, and makes the iron swim on the surface.

RING OF FIERY HORSES

II Kgs. 6:8-23 The king of Syria hears that the prophet Elisha uses his power to find out the king’s secret plans.
  v. 14 The king sends a large army to capture Elisha in Dothan
  v. 15 Elisha’s servant is afraid when he sees the Syrian army.
  v. 16 Elisha says, “Fear not: for they that be with us are more than they that be with them.”
  v. 17 God opens the servants eyes (at Elisha’s request) and he sees God’s army of horses, chariots and fire
  v. 18 Elisha prays for God to smite the Syrian army with blindness.
  v. 19 Elisha leads the Syrian army into Samaria
  v. 22 Elisha forbids the king of Israel in Samaria to kill the Syrian army.
  v. 23 Elisha has them fed, provided for and sent back home . . . Syria came no more into the land of Israel

KING OF ISRAEL BLAMES ELISHA FOR A FAMINE WHERE A WOMAN EATS HER OWN CHILD

II Kgs. 6:24 Ben-hadad king of Syria besieged Samaria.
II Kgs. 6:25 And there was a great famine in Samaria: and, behold, they besieged it, until an ass's head was sold for fourscore pieces of silver, and the fourth part of a cab of dove's dung for five pieces of silver.
II Kgs. 6:26-29 And as the king of Israel was passing by upon the wall, there cried a woman unto him, saying, Help, my lord, O king . . . this woman said unto me, Give thy son, that we may eat him to day, and we will eat my son to morrow. So we boiled my son, and did eat him: and I said unto her on the next day, Give thy son, that we may eat him: and she hath hid her son.
II Kgs. 6:30 The king rent his clothes and put on sackcloth. Then he said, “God do so and more also to me, if the head of Elisha the son of Shaphat shall stand on him this day.”
II Kgs. 6:32 But Elisha sat in his house, and the elders sat with him; he knew the king had sent a man to behead him.
II Kgs. 6:33 - II Kgs. 7:1 Elisha prophesied a message for the king: “Tomorrow about this time shall a measure of fine flour be sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, in the gate of Samaria.”
II Kgs. 7:2 A lord of the king said the windows of heaven would have to open for that to be true! and Elisha said “you will see it with your own eyes but not eat thereof.”
II Kgs. 7:3 There were 4 leprous men at the gate who decided to go to the camp of the Syrians for food even though they were the enemy and most likely would kill them (but they were going to die anyway of starvation and illness).
II Kgs. 7:5-7 At twilight they went in the camp of the Syrians and there was no man there, they had fled for their life. (God had made the Syrians hear a noise of horses and chariots and they thought Israel had hired other armies to fight them).
II Kgs. 7:8 The lepers looted the camp and hid the possessions . . . then they remembered the starving Israelites and told the porter of the city about the empty camp being deserted.
II Kgs. 7:9-15 The porter told the king and he was afraid it was a trap so he sent 2 men on horses to look for the Syrians but all they found were discarded garments and vessels cast away in haste all the way to Jordan.

II Kgs. 7:16 The Israelites spoiled the tents of the Syrians. So a measure of fine flour was sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, according to the word of the LORD.

II Kgs. 7:17-20 And the king appointed the lord on whose hand he leaned to have the charge of the gate: and the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died, as the man of God had said, who spake when the king came down to him.

BONES RAISE THE DEAD

II Kgs. 13:21 The last wonder in connection with Elisha occurs after this death. A man was raised from the dead when his body touched Elisha’s bones.

The Trying Of A Faithful Man

Wisdom literature: Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Songs of Solomon and Lamentations.

1. What kind of man was Job? Perfect, upright, feared God, eschewed evil.

   Job was a real man who lived in the land of Uz. Many have thought Job was not a real person, but a personification of the suffering of humanity. James said, “Ye have heard of the patience of Job . . . .” (Jas. 5:11). There is no reason to think Job was not a real character who lived on earth. (Dehoff’s Bible Handbook, p. 111)

PRAYER FOR COMMITMENT

For some people it takes a storm
And to be thrown overboard
Before they’ll fully repent.

Or to be in the belly of a whale
And spat out on the ground
Before they’ll go where they’re sent.

Some are angry at God
If He doesn’t rain down His fire
On those to whom their anger is bent.

But unlike Jonah of old
I pray when my story is told
They’ll say, “God said go and she went!”
Review Questions For Isaiah

The book of Isaiah was one of the Dead Sea Scrolls found in 1947. It was written on parchment about 24 ft. long. Scholars believe this copy was written at least 200 B.C.

1. Which books are called the Major Prophets and why? Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Daniel because of their size

2. Who was this man Isaiah?
   • His name means "a remnant will return."
   • He was a prophet of the Southern Kingdom of Judah, at the time the Northern Kingdom was destroyed by the Assyrians.
   • He lived in the reigns of Uzziah, Jothan, Ahaz, and Hezekiah.
   • He wrote other books which we do not have, such as a life of Uzziah (II Chron. 26:22) and a book of the kings of Israel and Judah (II Chron. 32:32).
   • He is quoted in the New Testament more than any other prophet.

3. What was Isaiah’s task as a prophet? Fruitless warning and exhortation (Isa. 6:9-13)

4. What is so amazing about the prophecy Isaiah made about Cyrus? Isaiah prophesied Cyrus, king of Persia, would permit the Jews to return to Jerusalem and let them rebuild the temple. This prophecy is so amazing because it was made 150 years before the time of Cyrus yet he called him by name and prophesied that he would rebuild the temple. In Isaiah’s day, the temple had not yet fallen!

5. Isaiah’s prophesies about Christ:
   - His advent, 40:3-5
   - His Virgin Birth, 7:14
   - Galilee as scene of His ministry, 9:1-2
   - His deity, 9:6-7
   - His sufferings, 53
   - Die with the wicked, 53:9
   - Buried with the rich, 53:9
   - Might of His reign, 40:10-11
   - Righteousness of His reign, 32:1-8
   - His vast influence, 49:7
   - His rule over the Gentiles, 2:2-3; 42:1
   - His justice and kindness, 42:3-4, 7
   - Death to be destroyed, 25:8; 26:19
   - New Name, 62:2; 65:15
   - New Heaven & New Earth, 65:17; 66:22
6. What enemies did Isaiah face?

- Tiglathpileser III
- Pekah
- Rezin
- Shalmaneser IV
- Sargon II
- Death
- Merodach-baladan
- Sennacherib
- Rabshakeh
- Tirahkah

During the reign of Jotham:

Tiglathpileser III who is called “Pul” in 2 Kgs 15:19 reigned over Assyria.

To resist Assyria he formed an alliance with:

- Pekah, king of North Israel
- Rezin, king of Damascus

During the reign of Ahaz:

Pekah and Rezin alliance threatened to dethrone Ahaz if he didn’t join them.

War ensued. Ahaz called on Judah’s old enemy Tiglath-pileser for help and was forced to pay dearly for his protection . . . Judah was brought very low (2 Kgs. 15:29; 16:7-9; 2 Chron. 28:19; Isa. 7:1). To please Tiglath-pileser, Ahaz went to Damascus to join in the celebration of victory. While there he saw a Syrian altar and he brought the pattern to Jerusalem and had a copy set up in the temple in place of the brazen altar of Solomon. Thus Ahaz introduced idolatry into Jerusalem, even causing his sons to pass through the fire (2 Kgs. 16:10-16; 2 Chron. 28:3).

During the reign of Hezekiah:

Shalmaneser IV who succeeded Tiglath-pileser

Besieged the city of Samaria when King Hoshea of North Israel stopped paying Assyria annual tribute (2 Kg. 17:4).

Sargon II who succeeded Shalmaneser IV

Captured Israel’s choicest people and deported them to Assyria. Northern Israel passed into oblivion, and Judah was left exposed to direct political and religious ravages by Assyria and Babylon. Judah only escaped by promising heavy tribute.

Death

Hezekiah was at death’s door. Judah needed him. He had removed the high places and broken down idols (2 Kgs. 18:4, 22). Being childless he was seriously concerned for the future of Judah. He prayed to recover and God extended his life 15 years (2 Kgs. 20; Isa. 38:1).
Review Questions For Isaiah--Continued

Merodach-baladan
Babylon king and enemy of Assyria. Wanted to form an alliance with Hezekiah against Assyria. Nothing came of it though before Sargon’s army reappeared.

Sennacherib
Hezekiah was panic stricken at the destruction of Sennacherib and hastened to bring rich tribute, stripping even the temple and the palace of their treasures to do so (2 Kgs. 18:13-16). But, Sennacherib was not satisfied and overran Judah taking small towns without number, carrying over two hundred thousand of Judah’s population into captivity to Assyria, demanding high tribute, and even capturing Hezekiah’s daughters in his enormous spoil.

Rabshakeh
Commander-in-chief of Sennacherib. Took a strong detachment to besiege Jerusalem (2 Kgs. 18:17-19:8; Isa. 36:2-37:8). He described his blockade with this inscription: “I shut up Hezekiah in Jerusalem like a bird in a cage.” He failed to capture the city of Jerusalem however.

Tirhakah
Commander-in-chief of Egypt’s forces and afterward king of Ethiopia. Though an enemy of Judah his attack on Sennacherib’s forces who were demanding surrender of Jerusalem slowed down Sennacherib though Tirhakah was defeated without difficulty. Then Sennacherib’s host was miraculously and suddenly smitten, and the great Assyrian conqueror was forced to return to Nineveh (2 Kgs. 19:34).

The invasion of Judah by Sennacherib in 701 B.C. was the great political event in Isaiah’s ministry. Had it not been for the prophet's statesmanship, Jerusalem might have capitulated. As it was, only a small, insignificantly small, remnant of Judah's population escaped. Isaiah had at this time been preaching 40 years. It is recorded in Jewish history that he suffered from leprosy in his latter years and was finally martyred by being sawn in half (Heb. 11:37).
Review Questions For Jeremiah

This book presents God’s final effort to save Jerusalem. Jeremiah prophesied about 100 years after Isaiah. Isaiah had saved Jerusalem from Assyria. Jeremiah tried to save it but failed. Jeremiah was a priest by birth (Jer. 1:1). His father was Hilkiah the priest. Some think his father was the “Hilkiah” the priest in 2 Kgs. 22 who brought the book of the Lord to the attention of King Josiah. Jeremiah was called to be a priest in the 13th year of the reign of Josiah (Jer. 1:2). This was about B.C. 626. Jerusalem was partly destroyed in B.C. 606 and further destroyed in B.C. 597, and finally burned and laid waste in B.C. 586. Jeremiah lived through the terrible 40 years at the close of the monarchy and while the nation was in its death throws. He never married and was a pathetic, lonely figure giving God’s last message to a city which had been hopelessly attached to idols. (Dehoff’s Bible Handbook, pg. 143).

1. When did God appoint Jeremiah to be a prophet? Before he was born (Jeremiah 1:5)

2. When Jeremiah objected to being a prophet at such a young age how did God reassure him? By touching Jeremiah on the mouth and indicating He would give Jeremiah the words to say.

3. Who was Jeremiah?
   The son of a priest (Hilkiah)
   He was called to be a prophet in the thirteenth year of the reign of Josiah (Jer. 1:2)
   He never married (Jer. 16:1-2)
   He was a pitiful, lonely figure giving God’s last message to a city which had been hopelessly devoted to idols.

4. What is the historical background for this book? The Northern Kingdom had been taken captive into Assyria. Much of Judah had been taken. Only Jerusalem was left. Isaiah had prophesied 100 years before and saved Jerusalem. Assyria, Babylon and Egypt were battling for world power. Babylon won and ruled the world for 70 years. These are the 70 years of Jewish captivity.

5. What prophets were contemporary with Jeremiah?
   • Ezekiel--a fellow priest somewhat younger than Jeremiah who preached in Babylon among the captives the same things that Jeremiah was preaching in Jerusalem.
   • Daniel--a man of royal blood who served in the palace of Nebuchadnezzar
   • Habakkuk and Zephaniah--who helped Jeremiah in Jerusalem
   • Nahum--who predicted the fall of Nineveh
   • Obadiah--predicted the ruin of Edom
6. What message did God want Jeremiah to proclaim?
   • That God would pluck up, break down, destroy and overthrow the kingdom of Judah for its unfaithfulness.
   • He warned that Babylon would become a world power and destroy Judah.
   • He warned that Judah would be taken captive by Babylon.
   • He prophesied also that after the 70 years of captivity Babylon would be destroyed never to rise again, while a remnant of the Jews would be gathered home.

7. What cruel punishment did Jeremiah suffer for proclaiming the Word of God? He was put into a cistern deep in mire and given no food (Jer. 38)

8. What are some of the symbols Jeremiah used in his prophecies?

10. How did Jeremiah continue to proclaim God’s Word after being forbidden to speak in the temple? He dictated to Baruch, his scribe, and sent him to read it to the people
Review Questions For Jeremiah--Continued

11. What did Jehoiakim do to the scroll of God’s Word dictated by Jeremiah to Baruch?
   Penknifed it and burned it

12. Did Jeremiah’s prophecy come true?  Yes, Babylon’s king Nebuchadnezzar conquered Jerusalem, looted the temple and carried away the people into exile.  Psalm 137:1-9

13. Did the exile bring about the end of Judah, the Southern Kingdom?  Yes

14. What other book is written by Jeremiah?  Lamentations

   “The last chapter of Jeremiah should be read as an introduction to Lamentations. It gives Jeremiah’s sorrow over the city which he had done his best to save. Just outside the north wall of Jerusalem is a place called “Jeremiah’s grotto,” where tradition says Jeremiah wept bitter tears and composed this book. This grotto is under a knoll that is called Golgotha. The suffering prophet wept where later the suffering Savior died”.  (Dehoff’s Bible Handbook, p. 150).

Jeremiah and King Josiah

In the early years of Jeremiah’s ministry he prophesied during the reign of Josiah (Jer. 2:12). We know Josiah as the boy king, the king who found the Book of God and read it to the people, the king who at 20 years old began to try and reform his people by attempting to destroy idol worship. He tore down idols in Judah and even in Israel. But remember, the Northern Kingdom had been in captivity 100 years when Josiah became king. Josiah would have known about their disobedience and the reason for their captivity. This should have been a warning in itself to any king of Judah and the people who served him.

Yet, during Josiah’s reign Jeremiah the prophet was persecuted for his words of prophecy and exposing the immorality of the people (Jer. 7:1-26). His chief enemies were the priests and the prophets (Jer. 26:7-8) who had a large following among the people while Jeremiah was merely a “voice crying in the wilderness.” Jeremiah nearly lost his life because of his prophecy (Jer. 7, 26). The men of his hometown had made a conspiracy to put him to death (Jer. 11:18-23). His neighbors and even his own relatives were disloyal to the young prophet.

Not much is known about the later years of Josiah’s reign. In the death of King Josiah at the battle of Megiddo, Judah suffered a calamity from which she never recovered. King Josiah was succeeded by his younger brother Jehoahaz who reigned only 3 months. He was deposed by Necho and carried off in chains to Egypt where he died. Necho appointed Jehoiakim to be ruler.

2 We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midst thereof.
3 For there they that carried us away captive required of us a song; and they that wasted us required of us mirth, saying, Sing us one of the songs of Zion.
4 How shall we sing the LORD's song in a strange land?
5 If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning.
6 If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth; if I prefer not Jerusalem above my chief joy.
7 Remember, O LORD, the children of Edom in the day of Jerusalem; who said, Rase it, rase it, even to the foundation thereof.
8 O daughter of Babylon, who art to be destroyed; happy shall he be, that rewardeth thee as thou hast served us.
9 Happy shall he be, that taketh and dasheth thy little ones against the stones.

18. Did Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego die? No, they didn’t even smell like smoke

19. Who protected them? An angel
20. Why doesn’t this incident mention Daniel? He had been placed in a position of power as a prince or wise man because of the interpretation of the king's dream . . . maybe he was far away tending to responsibilities and wasn’t around when this happened . . . the Bible doesn’t say.

21. Over and over Nebuchadnezzar was shown there is only one powerful God yet he’d soon have to be reminded again; What strange behavior did Nebuchadnezzar exhibit for 7 years that convinced him again that God rules the kingdoms of men. He behaved like a beast, lived with the beasts of the field, his hair was like feathers and his nails like bird’s claws.

Their traditions were often raised to the level of scripture itself. They were known to carry purity laws to the fullest degree and emphasize ceremony (Mt. 23:24). They had control of the Temple and maintained the synagogues. They opposed Roman rule and plotted against Jesus along with the Herodians (Mt. 22:16; Mk. 3:6, 12:13).

Sadducees: The sect of the High Priesthood. They were wealthy and had positions of political influence. They did not believe in the resurrection (which was “Sad U see”), spirits or angels (Mk. 12:18; Lk. 20:27; Acts 23:8). They rejected the Pharisee’s oral laws.

Essenies: The Essenies had an even more extreme reaction to the influences corrupting Jewish life. They lived apart from normal civilization in their own communities. Qumran was one such community where the Dead Sea scrolls were found. They dedicated their lives to religious devotion and study. They did not believe in a bodily resurrection, slavery or war and discouraged marriage. The Essenies are not mentioned in the Bible.

Zealots: Roman rule was abhorrent to the Zealots. They refused to pay taxes and considered it a sin to acknowledge loyalty to Caesar. The Zealots eventually won many followers and their defiance resulted in the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70.

Herodians: Jews who followed Herod. They built Masada. They sided with the Pharisees against Jesus (Mt. 22:16; Mk. 3:6, 12:13).

8. What is a hypocrite? One who pretends to be what he is not

9. Are we to love those who hate us? Yes

   When teaching grade school age children this point should be emphasized.
   When children start school they, for the first time in their lives, make friends on their own. They must cope with the bully of the class, endure the ruffian, and acquire the insight needed to get along with others. Children see things as right or wrong, fair or unfair, mean or kind. It is difficult for them to “let it go” if they are wronged. They want justice if they did not get a turn, or they were pushed, or they were called a name.

   Bible class is a great place to teach them to turn the other cheek. They need to understand that, yes, it is easier to love those who love us first but that being kind to someone who mistreats us has rewards. The reward is the approval of God. The reward is also that they will be recognized by others as mature. [Only babies tattletale and whine that they were mistreated]. Also, being nice to those who are mean to us heaps coals of fire on their heads (Proverbs 25:22, Rom. 12:20).

   When teaching this lesson it is helpful to utilize your public library’s children’s books that tell stories about children making friends and that illustrate attitudes, good and bad.

10. What are disciples to see first? The kingdom of heaven

12. What did Jesus teach us with the parable of the wise man building his house on the rock? That we must do what Jesus taught; we must keep God’s commandments

Review Questions For John 2
The Miracles Of Christ

1. What was the first miracle? Turning water to wine at a wedding feast

2. Was it alcoholic? No, it was juice from grapes

   The Scriptures say Jesus provided the wine after they had “fully drunk.” Jesus would never encourage people to sin by providing them with strong drink after they had “fully drunk.”

   The Greek word for:
   1. the fruit in the cluster,
   2. the juice and
   3. wine is the same for all three. The word wine is used for all three forms of the fruit in English Bibles, and this is why it has been claimed by so many that Jesus drank alcoholic wine.

   Many argue that it had to be alcoholic because that was the only way to preserve it . . . this is ignorance. There are several ways to preserve juice without it being alcoholic and they were known way before the time of Christ. In fact it was a easier process to preserve it nonalcoholic.

3. Who was at the wedding feast with Jesus? His mother

4. How many stone water pots did Jesus turn into wine? 6

5. What is a miracle? A wonder that occurs against the laws of nature

2. Where was Jesus taken? To Caiaphas the high priest where the scribes and elders were assembled

Biography of Caiaphas
- Important official in Jerusalem
- Sometimes referred to as High Priest [The term High Priest had come to designate even the elite families from whom candidates were chosen to be Priests . . . Caiaphas’ father, Annas, was a High Priest. Jn. 18:13; Acts 4:6; Lk. 3:2]
- He was mentioned 9 times by name in the NT: Mt. 26:3, 57; Lk. 3:2; Jn. 11:49, 18:13, 14, 24, 28; Acts 4:6
- Next to Pilate, the Roman Governor, Caiaphas was the most powerful dignitary in Judea.
- He served for 18 years (A.D. 18-36) in a political position for the Roman Government. He was a vicious enemy of Jesus.
- It was Caiaphas who suggested that there was a solution to the stir Christ was making--put this man to death Jn. 11:49-53 also see Mt. 26:62 & Mt. 27:3. [Major irony of history--Caiaphas’ solution brought an end to the Hebrew nation.]
- When Jesus was later arrested he was carried to Caipahas’ house Mt. 26:57; Jn. 18:24.
- After the establishment of the church Caiaphas was a persecutor of Christians Acts 4:6 ff.
- Archaeology--In 1990, just south of Jerusalem, a Jewish burial cave was accidentally discovered. When the cave was finally entered, archaeologists found several limestone ossuaries (boxes containing bones). One of these contained the remnants of several persons suggesting that it housed the remains of someone important. On the exterior were these words, “Joseph, son of Caiaphas,” or, as scholars suggested the meaning may be “Joseph of the family of Caiaphas.” According to Josephus, the high priest who succeeded Annas was “Joseph Caiaphas.” Ronny Reich, of the Israel Antiquities Authority, suggests that these bones are “in all probability” the bones of that same high priest who prosecuted Jesus Christ. Now he awaits judgment.

There is more to becoming a Christian than just believing in Jesus. Denominational preachers often teach the “Only Doctrine.” They say you are saved by FAITH ONLY, GRACE ONLY, or BELIEF ONLY. That is a lot of ONLY’S! They say, “Just accept Him into your heart,” or “Pray the Sinners Prayer.” Look at the commands and examples regarding conversion in the Scriptures. You will see God’s part is His mercy and grace and our part is obedience. Denominational people say they “got saved” and the Bible says one must “obey the gospel.

PRAYER TO FORGET

In Hebrews 8:12
You make it abundantly clear
That when You forgive You forget.
I keep reminding You though of a sin
Long ago concerning which, I did already repent.
You must think that it’s strange
When I bring it up again.
It is I who can’t
Put it behind.
The consequences are gone,
There is no one who knows, yet,
My conscience grieves me at night.
I shall not let it daunt that my memory haunts,
For I’ve done what I could to amend.
I think I need it as a reminder
To keep me humble
And kinder and not
Repeat it again.
“Many earnest persons, who have found direct education for themselves fruitless and unprofitable, declare that they first began to learn when they began to teach, and that in the education of others they discovered the secret of their own” (Gamaliel Bradford). It was so for me. I found that to thoroughly teach another is the best way to learn for yourself. Yet, “I had six honest serving men who taught me all I knew: their names were Where, What, When, Why, How, and Who” (Rudyard Kipling). Truly though, I would never consider myself to be self-taught. So, who taught the teacher? My husband, Gary McDade. I learned along with my children as over the years he taught us in family devotions. Nothing could have proven so strongly his true sincerity or so powerfully awakened our reverence, as the instruction he gave in those devotions which over thirty years ago took a distinguished place in our home. I learned along with him as he earned a bachelor’s degree and then a masters in Bible. I typed his papers, listened to him preach every Sunday, and observed his example. He is so very wise and dedicated to leading others to righteousness. What better teacher could I have had?
